It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

STATE OF NEW YORK.

No. 68.

IN ASSEMBLY,

FEBRUARY 22, 1897.

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

STATE HISTORIAN.

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New York:

The report of the State Historian for the fiscal year is herewith submitted:

I. During the year just closed the Department has compiled all the Official Legislative Records of the State, relating to the War of the Rebellion, covering the years from April, 1861, to 1873. If printed, this work will fill a volume of 600 pages, octavo style.

II. Progress has also been made in compiling the legislation enacted by the State of New York from the time of the adoption of the State Constitution in 1777 to the peace in 1783.

III. All the muster-rolls of the colony, including commissions issued, have been compiled from 1664 to 1760. This has been a task involving arduous labor. Many of these muster-rolls are next to undecipherable, many of them are nearly untranslatable, and all of them required the utmost care and patience in transcribing. In all, nearly 12,000 names were copied. These muster-rolls will be found in Appendix "H," at the end of the volume.

IV. The Official Colonial Records have also been transcribed from the year 1664 to 1674; but this work was forced to be suspended, because a voluminous mass of Dutch Records was brought to light. Lack of funds stood in the way of translation. Inasmuch as the policy of the office is to transcribe the Colonial Records consecutively and systematically, this work must necessarily stand in abeyance until the Legislature gives its authority and an appropriation for translation. These Dutch Records are not only interesting, but historically, extremely valuable, and represent in a minute and detailed manner the history of the times in which they were written. Much of the matter contained has never been used in historical form, and it is to be hoped that the Legislature will see its way clear to have this work prosecuted to the end.

V. Efforts have also been made to complete in a more detailed manner than has ever been tried before by the National Government or by the State Government a list of the battles and skirmishes that New York troops took part in, from May, 1861, to the close of hostilities in 1865. The engagements and skirmishes for the year 1861 will be found in the Appendix under letter "A." An idea of the magnitude of this branch of the work can be estimated by a glance at the table herewith submitted.

VI. The Department has bent all its energies and resources toward perfecting the records of New York State during the War of the Rebellion. It has succeeded in obtaining reports of a number of engagements of New York organizations, that do not appear in the Official Records of the Rebellion. The most conspicuous of these heretofore missing reports is that of Captain William J. McIntire of the Ninety-ninth New York Infantry, whose company, "D," was on board the ill-fated frigate "Congress" when she was sunk by the "Merrimac," the first armored plated man-of-war, and whose report will be found in the appendix under "B."

Colonel David W. Wardrop, of the Ninety-ninth, in submitting his report to the War Department mentioned Captain McIntire, but failed to include his report of the affair. This Department put itself in communication with Colonel Wardrop, and obtained not only Captain McIntire's missing report, but the following letter, which is interesting in itself:

UNION VETERANS' UNION.

BOSTON, Mass., October 20, 1896.

HUGH HASTINGS, Esq., State Historian, State Capitol, Albany, N. Y.:

My Dear Sir.—I enclose a copy of Captain Wm. J. McIntire's report of the part taken by D Company, Ninety-ninth N. Y. V. Infantry, forming the volunteer portion of the crew of the United States frigate Congress—in action with the rebel steamship Virginia on the 8th day of March, 1862.

I am confident Captain McIntire does not give all of the names of the killed or missing in his company in his report. I am sure he does omit two, as about the 1st of June, 1862, I saw two graves in the Norfolk burying ground bearing the names of his company not in his report. One is represented as having died March 28, 1862; the other as died May 6, 1862. Singularly enough, the names are not given in a pencilled note on the original report, and this addenda: June 30, 1862, "four men of this company have not been accounted for since December 31, 1861." I remember the two graves, but can not recall the names, or the reason why I did not place them there at the time. I shall search my papers for correspondence or memoranda concerning the matters as soon as I can.

In answer to yours of the 31st instant, I have official reports of Forts Clark and Hatteras, Roanoke Island, New Berne and Siege of Suffolk. Will copy and forward to you as promptly as possible.

The Cherrystone Inlet affair occurred before I was appointed—August 21, 1861. No report was made to me.

Tanner's Creek was a slight affair, at Indian Pole Bridge, on our advance to Norfolk, Va.; no casualties, only four scratched.

Elizabeth City, N. C., similar.

I doubt if the four gunboats, manned by detachments of the Ninety-ninth, ever made report to me, excepting monthly. But I had pretty accurate information of their doings and may have some reports of affairs in which they were engaged.

I have a number of affairs in which the Ninety-ninth was engaged that, to my knowledge, have not gone beyond Generals Butler, Weber, Dix, Wool and Viele. Will confer with you later regarding them.

I am under obligations to you for the answers to my First Battery inquiries.

Respectfully yours,

D. W. WARDROP,

Late Colonel Ninety-ninth N. Y. V. Infantry.

As will be seen by the above letter, Colonel Wardrop has offered to forward to this office a number of other official reports of the Ninety-ninth New York, that do not appear in the voluminous work issued by the War Department as the Official Records of the Rebellion.

The Department has used every effort to obtain, where possible, missing reports of New York regiments in other engagements. An illuminated example of the necessity of the work in hand is afforded by the battle of Cedar Mountain, August 9, 1862. On that sanguinary field New York State was represented by fifteen organizations:

one cavalry regiment, five batteries of artillery and nine regiments of infantry. Of the work accomplished by New York's sons on that field, an excellent idea can be obtained by reading the following extract from the report of General A. S. Williams, commanding the first division of the Twelfth Corps:

"The enemy was, however, driven out of the open field by the other regiments, and some distance into the woods where, being strongly re-enforced, their fire became overwhelming. No better proof of its terrific character can be given than the fact that of the three remaining regiments which continued the charge, the Twenty-eighth New York, Forty-sixth Pennsylvania and Fifth Connecticut, every field officer and every adjutant was killed or disabled. In the Twenty-eighth New York every company officer was killed or wounded. * * * * * A combat more persistent or heroic can scarcely be found in the history of the war, but men of even this unequalled heroism could not withstand the overwhelming numbers of the enemy, especially when left without the encouragement and direction of officers."

General S. W. Crawford, commanding First Brigade of the first division, Second Corps, in his official report, says:

"I then gave the order to advance to the edge of the woods, to fix bayonets and to charge upon the enemy's position. Steadily in line my command advanced, crossed the fences which skirted the woods, and with one loud cheer charged across the open space, and in the face of a fatal and murderous fire from the masses of the enemy's infantry, who lay concealed in the bushes and woods on our front and flank, onward these regiments (Twenty-eighth New York, Forty-sixth Pennsylvania and Fifth Connecticut) charged, driving the enemy's infantry back and through the woods beyond. The Twenty-eighth New York, Fifth Connecticut and part of the Forty-sixth Pennsylvania entered the woods and engaged in hand to hand fight with vastly superior numbers of the enemy, reaching the battery at the heart of his position; but the reserve of the enemy were at once brought up, and thrown upon their broken ranks. Their field officers had all been killed, wounded or taken prisoners, the support I looked for did not arrive, and my gallant men, broken, decimated by that fearful fire, that unequal contest, fell back again across the fields, leaving most of their number upon the field.

“The slaughter was fearful. The field officers of the regiments which had driven the enemy back were killed, wounded or taken prisoners. Most of the company officers had fallen by the side of their men and the color guards had been shot down in detail, as they attempted to sustain and carry forward the colors of their regiment. * * * * * In the Twenty-eighth New York, its colonel (Dudley Donnelly) had fallen, mortally wounded, and was borne from the field. Lieutenant-Colonel (Edwin F.) Brown had his arm shattered. Major (Elliott W.) Cook, after being wounded, was made prisoner by the enemy. Out of the fourteen company officers in action there is not one remaining able to do duty. All are either wounded or prisoners.”

Out of a force of 339 taken into action by the Twenty-eighth New York, 213 were killed, wounded or captured. The percentage of casualties in the One Hundred and Second New York was nearly as great. Of the 200 men who went into action, 111 were killed, wounded or captured. Up to the present time, lamentable as it may seem, the only official records on file in the War Department at Washington, D.C., or in the Adjutant-General's Office in this city, touching the valor of New York's sons at Cedar Mountain, are the extracts from the reports of General Williams and General Crawford, found above. From the very nature of things and the frightful losses among the field and staff officers of the New York regiments, the reason is apparent why official reports could not be made for our organizations. Reliance, therefore, must be placed upon private sources, upon contemporaneous letters, for more detailed descriptions of the services New York's sons rendered to the Country on that hot August day in 1862. To that end the several communications which will be found in the appendix will supply links in the historical chain; two letters from Captain Aaron P. Bates, of the One Hundred and Second New York, under "D," written immediately after the battle; another from First Sergeant Albert Baur, of A Company, One Hundred and Second New York, under "E," is particularly interesting, the latter as a narrative illustrating how the colors of the regiment were saved from falling into the hands of the Confederates.

EXPLODING AN OLD SLANDER.

An old slander recently revived, against the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York Volunteers, has been most effectually blown into atoms. In this regiment it will be remembered, was a company of Tuscarora Indians. Colonel John N. Whitford, of the Sixty-seventh North Carolina Infantry, and his brother, Major Edward Whitford, who were in command of the Confederate forces at Beech Grove, N. C., on the 22d of July, 1864, circulated the serious charge in effect that the Indians of the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York scalped the Confederate wounded at the battle of Batchelder's Creek, North Carolina, February 1, 1864. The Department is in receipt of two exceedingly valuable communications exploding this scandal—from the late Gen. Peter J. Claassen, who commanded the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York and from Captain Cornelius C. Cusick, of that command, who organized the company of Tuscarora Indians.

Captain Cusick gives an excellent description of the manner in which the One Hundred and Thirty-second was raised, especially that part that relates to the enlisting of the Indians.

This correspondence is published in the Appendix under "F;" with it is a letter from Mr. Joseph O. Lopez, formerly of the Ninety-ninth New York Volunteers, who issued a circular over a year ago reviving the slander against the One Hundred and Thirty-second. This circular fell into the hands of the State Historian, who at once forwarded copies to General Claassen and to Captain Cusick, with a request for a truthful statement of facts. An explanatory letter from Mr. Lopez concludes the incident.

PAUCITY OF OFFICIAL REBELLION RECORDS.

In perfecting the Records of the War of the Rebellion, and in obtaining missing reports at this remote period, the difficulties to be overcome can be but little understood except by those who are brought face to face with this character of work. Even the Official Records of the Rebellion, published under the jurisdiction of the National Government, are woefully deficient in the matter of Regimental Reports. Of course, allowance must be made for the first year of the war, before the troops were properly organized and officers properly disciplined, and for the last two years of the war, when constant, almost daily fighting led to the death or disability of commanding officers, to the sudden raid upon and destruction of the mails by guerillas, and to the capture of officers and destruction of army trains that carried priceless records of regimental organizations.

Many of the States, at the outbreak of the war, seemed to realize the importance of ordering their organizations to file duplicate copies of muster-rolls and of reports of battles; one for the War Department and the other for the State archives; but New York in this particular, was lamentably remiss. In scores of battles where the troops of the Empire State were most distinguished for merit and heroism, regimental reports are not to be found, and but scant mention is encountered in reports of general officers.

In 1864, the State seemed to awaken to a full realization of the importance of gathering records and a gallant effort was made to redeem itself by establishing the Bureau of Military Statistics, whose specific duties were imposed by law as follows:

"To collect and preserve in permanent form an authentic sketch of every person from this State who has volunteered into the service of the General Government since April 15, 1861;

"Second, a record of the services of the several regiments, including an account of their organization and subsequent history;

"An account of the aid afforded by the several towns and counties of the State."

As soon as the Governor signed the act, blanks were prepared and were distributed wherever New York State troops could be reached. The War Department, however, refused to permit the agents of this State to visit the armies in the prosecution of their work, consequently the project was seriously handicapped as long as the troops remained in the field; and when they went into winter quarters the results were totally incommensurate with the importance of the work, owing to the large number of deaths, resignations, captures and transfers. The Bureau, however, succeeded in gathering together a mass of material, more especially of a biographical nature, of officers and men; it also received a number of histories of regiments, of batteries of artillery, and troops of cavalry, but on the whole, this data was of an immature nature, and conspicuous for errors in dates, in names of battles and of general and regimental officers.

Supplemental to the Records now contained in the Adjutant-General's Department, this office has received during the last year much that is not only important but valuable, especially in filling out the records of many organizations, which, up to this time, have been painfully imperfect and untrustworthy.

NEW YORK IN THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR.

The declaration in the State Historian's report last year that New York State furnished forty thousand (40,000) troops during the War of the Revolution, was met with a storm of denials and criticism, that beginning with a Philadelphia newspaper swept through this State from Buffalo to New York. Several writers with more presumption than judgment, even charged that such a "preposterous statement" utterly discredited the work of the Department. Puerile State jealousy has in many ways and by many shallow writers striven to deny to New York credit for the exalted patriotism it has ever been her pride to display and her record to exert in the hour of her Country's peril.

New York's placid indifference to exploiting her great achievements has encouraged a certain class of so-called historical writers of other States for a period running over a hundred years, in belittling the Empire State at almost every historical crisis. From the adoption of the Federal Constitution, New York has been exposed to virulent attacks from New England writers, not only for her position in the convention that adopted the Federal Constitution, but for her course during the second war with Great Britain.

And it seems perfectly appropriate that a writer from the sister State of Pennsylvania should ridicule New York's patriotism during the trying years from 1775 to 1789; but in the absence of positive proof to the contrary, the willingness with which certain influential newspapers in this State reproduced these denials and joined issues with New York's assailants to the detriment of their own

State was surprising as their motive was inexplicable. Fortunately, what was known by this Department to be a fact a year ago will soon be established within the reach of the public generally, and the statement then made will be more than verified.

In order that all the records extant should be amalgamated, and that the public should know exactly what co-operation New York rendered to her sister colonies during the War of the Revolution, a project was set on foot last spring which had in contemplation the consolidation of all the revolutionary records in the possession of the State of New York and the War Department at Washington, D. C. Early in May, 1896, Col. D. S. Lamont, Secretary of War, put himself in communication with Governor Morton and made a formal request that the State, through the Regents of the University, should loan the United States Government whatever revolutionary muster-rolls were filed away in our State Library. Governor Morton's interest in the subject was at once aroused, and without delay he submitted the matter to the Regents, supplemented by a request that Colonel Lamont's project should be consummated. At the annual Convocation in June last, the Regents failed to see the expediency of the request made by the Federal Government and the Governor, and declined to permit our Revolutionary Records to leave the State, on the ground that the risk covered in transportation to Washington and return was altogether too hazardous. It was contended that the policy of the Regents never to permit the State archives to leave the fire-proof and water-proof vaults in which they were kept should not be broken. Besides, it was contended, a dangerous precedent would be established — that by loaning the Records to the Government the door was opened to those of our sister States that might be disposed to make the same sort of a request. As a concession, however, the Regents offered the National Government every access, should the War Department see fit to detail a number of copyists for the purpose of transcribing the Records. Inasmuch as the War Department had no funds fixed by statute — and therefore no authority — for the transportation of clerks from Washington to Albany and return, or for their maintenance while they remained in this city, the laudable enterprise fell through. This refusal of the Regents left New York State in any but an enviable position, when the National Government determined to print its Revolutionary Records. The State of New York would have had no position whatever commensurate with the services it had rendered to the cause. Its record, as a matter of fact, would not have appeared. The State would have been at a marked disadvantage.

Fortunately, however, State Comptroller Roberts had in the summer of 1895 discovered in the attic of the old State Hall a great mass of Revolutionary Records that had lain undisturbed for nearly eighty years. Realizing their value and the necessity of putting them in shape for public use, Comptroller Roberts, governed by a high sense of public spirit and patriotism, entered into an agreement with Secretary Lamont, through Col. Fred C. Ainsworth, U. S. A., chief of the Record and Pension office, for the interchange of these records with those relating to New York State on file in the War Department. This patriotic demonstration of reciprocity has proven of incalculable value to the history of this State and of the United States. So that to-day in the War Department in Washington, D. C., and in the State Comptroller's office in this city the muster and pay rolls of the troops furnished by New York State to the War of the Revolution, are in more complete condition as to names, and numbers furnished, than at any previous time in the history of this State or of the United States. From documents and rolls whose authenticity can not be questioned, of which each one bears the stamp of official accuracy, the statement can be iterated without the fear of successful contradiction that the number of troops furnished by New York State during the War of the Revolution, will aggregate between forty thousand and forty-one thousand.

In addition to these muster and pay rolls there are other records bearing the name of regiments with their field, staff and line officers, without the name of a single private, thus indicating that there were skeleton regiments, duly officered, whose ranks, it is safe to assume, were only partially filled. Then again, in the Comptroller's possession there are the names of pensioners whose claims are duly certified as New York soldiers, but whose names can not be found on any of the existing muster or pay rolls. The fact that they obtained a pension is a sufficient guarantee that they must have seen service. In the consideration of the lists of regiments and organizations prepared from the official rolls there can be no question that if all the facts could be brought to light, it would be found that New York State supplied nearer forty-five thousand troops than forty thousand.

NEW YORK'S SONS AT GETTYSBURG.

What holds good of New York's share in the War of the Revolution is further illustrated in the attempts of many historical writers of sister States to deprive the Empire State of credit that was gained during the War of the Rebellion. Less than a month ago an unseemly exhibition was made at the meeting of the Loyal Legion Commandery in the city of New York, when a major-general from Maine egotistically attempted to snatch the laurels away from the brow of Gen. N. M. Curtis, of this State, who greatly distinguished himself at the battle of Fort Fisher. It is this same spirit, no doubt, that led Gen. George G. Meade in his report of the battle of Gettysburg, to overlook the magnificent services rendered the Army of the Potomac and the country by Gen. Henry W. Slocum and other eminent soldiers from this State. A few facts will illustrate this position, and demonstrate the truth of this assertion.

General Slocum, by an order of General Meade's was placed in command of the right wing of the Army of the Potomac, after the death of General Reynolds, July 1, 1863, Gen. Alpheus S. Williams succeeding General Slocum to the command of the Twelfth Corps; yet General Meade,— who though born in Spain was a Pennsylvanian,— in his official report, carefully refrained from mentioning General Williams' name as the corps commander or giving General Slocum credit for commanding the right wing of the army. General Meade in his prejudices even went further than this. It is a notorious fact that General Meade insisted that General Slocum should strip Culp's Hill of all troops except the fragments of the First Corps, and he ordered the entire Twelfth Corps from this almost impregnable position over to the Round Tops. He refused even to leave a division, and only by the most persistent importuning on General Slocum's part, Meade finally consented to permit Greene's small brigade, which consisted of five New York regiments, the Sixtieth, Seventy-eighth, One Hundred and Second, One Hundred and Thirty-seventh and One Hundred and Fortyninth New York Volunteers, to remain. And every student of Gettysburg is aware of the fact that when the Confederate general, Edward Johnson, under cover of darkness crept forward to capture Culp's Hill, he found a sturdy line of blue whose rapid, withering fire checked his advance and led him to believe he had come upon the main army. "The enemy were too securely intrenched and in too great numbers to be dislodged by the force at my command," Johnson wrote in his official report. The line which he struck, and which he found "in too great numbers to be dislodged" was Greene's small New York Brigade, lengthened out as skirmishers, intervals of five or ten feet between each man. Had Johnson pushed through this fragile line, he would have reached, 500 yards further on, the entire reserve artillery, with all the reserve ammunition of the Army of the Potomac; he would have captured, with very little resistance, Meade's headquarters which were not more than 600 yards in front of him, and he would have pierced the center of the northern army.

Of all the great commanders that the war produced, General Slocum was no doubt the most modest, the least complaining and the most generous in allowing for the errors of others, particularly for the mistakes of his superior officers, yet Slocum was forced to protest against Meade's official report in these words:

"Your report is the official history of that important battle, and to this report reference will always be made by our government, our people, and the historian, as the most reliable and accurate account of the services performed by each corps, division, and brigade of your army. If you have inadvertently given to one division the credit of having performed some meritorious service which was in reality performed by another division, you do an injustice to brave men and defraud them of well-earned laurels. It is an injustice which even time can not correct. That errors of this nature exist in your official report is an indisputable fact.

"You give great credit to Lockwood's Brigade for services on the evening of July 2d, but state that this brigade was a portion of the First Corps, while it never at any time belonged to that corps, but was a portion of the Twelfth Corps, and was accompanied in its operations on the evening of July 2 by General Williams in person.

A portion of this brigade (the One Hundred and Fiftieth New York) is still in General Williams' Division.

* * * * * "From your statement it would appear that Geary's Division marched to the support of your left; that Williams' Division did not; that his (Williams') division, or a portion of it, was guarding the intrenchments when the enemy gained possession; that General Geary returned, and with his division drove the enemy back; that the engagement on the following morning was fought by Geary's Division, assisted by Wheaton's Brigade. This I know is the inference drawn from your history of those operations by every person acquainted with the truth. Yet the facts in the case are very nearly the reverse of the above in every particular, and directly in contradiction to the facts as set forth in the report of General Geary, as well as that of General Williams. Geary's Division did not march even in the direction of your left. Two of his brigades, under his immediate command, left the intrenchments under orders to move to the support of your left, but through some unfortunate mistake he took the road leading to Two Taverns. Williams' entire division did move to the support of your left, and it was one of his brigades (Lockwood's), under his immediate command, which you commend, but very singularly credit to the First Corps."

Against the unjust treatment that had been accorded to the veteran, Gen. George S. Greene, General Slocum laid additional stress. General Greene at that time was 63 years of age, and a more energetic and able officer or one better qualified to hold the dangerous position which he then occupied, could not have been found in either army. General Slocum said: "Greene's Brigade of the second division remained in the intrenchments and the failure of the enemy to gain any possession of our works was due entirely to the skill of General Greene and the heroic valor of his troops. His brigade suffered severely but maintained its position, and held the enemy in check until the return of Williams' Division."

General Meade answered General Slocum's protest in detail. Touching the omission to mention the commendable services rendered by Greene's Brigade, he said: "I am not prepared to admit this as an error. It was impossible for me to recapitulate and do justice to each brigade and division in detail, and hence I refer to the sub-reports."

And in this connection it is worthy to note that of all the Union troops under fire at Gettysburg, Greene's Brigade was the only organization that never yielded an inch of ground to the enemy.

Another New York general who has been a target for the censure and condemnation of Pennsylvania soldiers for the part which he took at Gettysburg, is Gen. Daniel E. Sickles of New York city. In animadverting upon General Sickles' conduct and position on the 2d day of July, 1863, many of his critics overlook a number of very essential facts:

First. The position originally assigned to General Sickles was a conspicuously weak one. It ran along a hollow, and string out his forces as he pleased he had not sufficient number of men to cover or to hold Little Round Top;

Second. By advancing his line 500 yards, General Sickles found higher ground much better adapted for defense, in addition to enabling him to hold the Emmitsburg Pike, which to have surrendered to the enemy without a struggle would have been in violation of all rules of warfare, as three corps — one-half the Union army — came on the field by that route;

Third. Meade's refusal to examine Sickles' position, because of Meade's determination to attack the Confederate left and because he expected and predicted that the Confederates would assail his right wing — in spite of Sickles' repeated assertions that large bodies of the enemy were moving to our left, and that the Third Corps would be their objective point;

Fourth. The ill-advised removal, on the second day of Buford's Cavalry on our left flank, a mistake which Meade himself admits, thus exposing the Round Tops and our left and rear to greater danger by Meade's own want of foresight;

Fifth. That General Meade expected Sickles with one-seventh of the Union army to resist successfully an attack made by two-fifths of the Confederate forces, the aggregate number of combatants of both armies at Gettysburg, being equal, as later authorities all seem to agree.

So great an authority on military matters as the Comte de Paris speaks of General Sickles' position "as a convex line of great strength and difficult of access."

In 1888 and 1893, Gen. James Longstreet, one of the few surviving lieutenant-generals of the Southern army, who was in command of the Confederate forces at Gettysburg that battled with Sickles, declared with emphasis that Sickles' position on the Emmitsburg Pike was the strongest that possibly could have been taken, that had the Union general held his original line, his left resting on or near the Round Tops, the Confederates not only would have turned our left flank, but would have enveloped our rear, and forced Meade to have abandoned Cemetery Hill and fallen back in the direction of Baltimore.

Unquestionably the best topographer in the Army of the Potomac, next to General McClellan, was Gen. Andrew A. Humphreys, who commanded the second division of Sickles' Corps during the battle of Gettysburg. It stands to reason if Sickles' position threatened to compromise the Army of the Potomac, so excellent an officer and so devoted a friend of General Meade's as General Humphreys indisputably was, the danger would have been pointed out, and error, if such there were, corrected. Some time ago, Gen. James H. Wilson, the eminent Union cavalry commander, in a eulogy on General Humphreys, laid particular stress upon the fact that history was silent regarding Humphreys' ideas on the subject of Sickles' position. The State Historian thereupon communicated with General Sickles, asking if General Humphreys had ever questioned the safety of his position or approved it.

Gen. Sickles in reply said: "Gen. Humphreys said nothing, not a word about moving forward to the ridge and covering the road and Round Top. He saw the necessity of my movement as clearly as I did. So did Birney, a judicious and sagacious officer. Humphreys was impatient to attack Longstreet, but I held him to a defensive attitude for some time on the Emmitsburg Road until support came from Hancock. My division commanders knew very well—all my commanders knew—that I always heard their suggestions with pleasure. On July 1st, the day before, I had requested Humphreys to select positions for a battle at Emmitsburg, where it was expected by Meade we would encounter the enemy. He knew I had confidence in his judgment and skill."

It must be remembered also, in connection with this matter, that at the time the conflict on the 2d of July began, the Fifth Corps had been brought up as a reserve to our right wing, which Meade had for a time contemplated taking from its position to attack the Confederate forces in Gettysburg. The Sixth Corps was on its way to the field. The time consumed, therefore, in driving Sickles from the Emmitsburg Road back to the Round Tops, meant the salvation of the Army of the Potomac, for by this delay ample opportunity was given to Meade to throw the Fifth Corps over from our right to the left, and to enable the Sixth Corps to reach the battle ground.

Had Sickles held on to the original line, had he diffused his corps along the untenable swale which the commanding general intended he should, but one result would have followed inevitably—the Confederate horde would have swept through the gaunt Union line as a cyclone through a cornfield, our left would have been turned, the Round Tops would have passed into the hands of the enemy, and before the Fifth and Sixth Corps arrived, the field would have been lost to the Union cause forever. Notwithstanding the desperate resistance in a strongly selected position of Graham's Brigade of Sickles' Corps, Barksdale's Brigade of Mississippians broke through his lines, after frightful slaughter. What the result would have been had the Union troops taken position on lower ground without the strength and natural advantages afforded by that on the Emmitsburg Road, is a matter it isn't necessary to speculate about now.

Another New York general, John Cleveland Robinson, who has crossed the silent river at his home in Binghamton since this report was prepared, had every reason to feel aggrieved at the treatment General Meade accorded his division, as will be seen by the following protest, which, as the commander of the Second Division, First Army Corps, under date of November 15, 1863, he sent to General Meade:

“ I feel it is my duty to inform you of the intense mortification and disappointment felt by my division on reading your report of the battle of Gettysburg. For nearly four hours, on July 1st, we were hotly engaged against overwhelming numbers, repulsed repeated attacks of the enemy, captured three flags and a very large number of prisoners and were the last to leave the field.

"The division formed the right of the line of battle of the First Corps, and during the whole time had to fight the enemy in front and protect our right flank (the division of the Eleventh Corps being at no time less than half a mile in rear). We went into action with less than 2,500 men and lost considerably more than half our number.

"We have been proud of our efforts on that day and hope that they will be recognized. It is but natural we should feel disappointed that we are not once referred to in the report of the commanding general.

"Trusting that you will investigate this matter and give us due credit, I am, General,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant."

New York has every reason to feel proud of the services of her sons at Gettysburg, and posterity certainly should feel grateful to the "brave men who gave their lives that the Union might be saved." On every day, in every phase of the conflict, New York patriots, whether wearing the star of the general or carrying the rifle of the private soldier, distinguished themselves and made a record which their children should hold in highest reverence.

In the first day's fight, the first shot was fired by a New Yorker—a member of the Ninth New York Cavalry. The best fighting on the first day was done by the two divisions of the First Corps, commanded by New Yorkers, Gen. John C. Robinson and Gen. James S. Wadsworth.

It was a New York general, Slocum, that commanded the right wing of the army.

It was another New York general, Sickles, who commanded the left corps of the army.

Another New Yorker, Gen. Daniel Butterfield, was chief of staff to General Meade.

Had it not been for General Greene and his heroic little brigade of New York soldiers, the back of Meade's army would have been broken, his center vitally pierced from the rear.

Another distinguished New York general, of the Engineer Corps of the regular army, Gouverneur K. Warren, by his great military foresight, saved the Round Tops at a critical moment in the conflict, from falling into the hands of the enemy.

And it was a New York general, Stephen H. Weed, who threw his brigade under Warren's command at that juncture and saved these formidable heights for Union troops; again it was two New York regiments, the One Hundred and Fortieth New York, commanded by the young, intrepid engineer officer, Patrick H. O'Rorke, who, like Weed, gave his life on that spot, and the One Hundred and Forty-sixth New York, that re-enforced Vincent's Brigade when its right was giving away under the desperate assaults of Hood's vehement followers.

On the third day, it was another son of New York, Gen. Alexander S. Webb, who commanded the brigade that received the savage and heroic onslaught of Pickett's brave Virginians.

ROBUST INTEREST MANIFESTED BY THE PEOPLE IN COLONIAL AND REVOLUTIONARY RECORDS AND HISTORY.

The resources of the Department have been sorely tried during the past year by the many queries, letters and demands for information from people interested in their ancestors who settled in this State during the Colonial period, or who enlisted from this State during the War of the Revolution or the War of 1812. These queries have come from nearly every State in the Union, demonstrating the constantly expanding interest in matters of this kind.

The study of American history and of American ancestry has become a very prominent part of our political existence; a scarcity of material has only whetted the appetites of the people for more detailed information. To satisfy this demand, which is as healthy as it is natural, our sister States of Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Massachusetts and Maryland are pushing forward the publication of Colonial and Revolutionary Records—records that have long lain neglected, and have only been accessible to a limited number of influential persons. Up to the present time the State of Pennsylvania has printed three series of her Colonial Archives, embracing thirty volumes; the fourth series, constituting twenty volumes, is now in process of preparation. The example set by the three States mentioned above should certainly be followed by the State of New York, the peer of them all. Even the comparatively modern States of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Montana have printed their early archives.

It is a crying shame that this great State ever abandoned printing its records, so well begun and continued by the late Dr. E. B. O'Callaghan. The Colonial Records and other valuable manuscripts now in the State Library, belong of right to the people, and the people will never have the true history of the early period of this State until these records are printed and distributed. The collection of manuscripts owned by the State of New York is more valuable and their contents more interesting than that of any other collection in the country outside of the city of Washington. The longer this work is neglected the more difficult will be the transcribing of our archives. Year by year the ink becomes less legible, and year by year the danger of mutilation and destruction increases. It is the fashion for a few alleged economists to decry the expense necessary in the preparation and publishing of valuable records of this character. The growth of patriotic societies in this State, male and female, the constantly developing interest manifested in our early history would seem to indicate that a very large class of our people who are not active in politics except on election day, believe that the State should use its resources in giving the public in printed form all the historical records that are now under lock and key.

Before closing this report, it gives infinite pleasure to acknowledge the manifold obligations this Department is under to the Hon. Daniel S. Lamont, Secretary of War; Major-General Edwin A. McAlpin, former Adjutant-General of the State; to Prof. Melvil Dewey, Secretary of the State Board of Regents, and to Col. W. F. Fox, the accomplished author of the standard work "Regimental Losses." To Col. Fred Phisterer, Assistant Adjutant-General, the cordial thanks of the Department are due for his generous assistance at all times and for the benefit of his incomparable knowledge of the details of the Adjutant-General's office; and to Mr. Dunkin V. B. Johnson, reference librarian of the State Library, for hearty co-operation and many valuable suggestions.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

HUGH HASTINGS,

State Historian.

STATE CAPITOL, ALBANY, February 22, 1897.

In the Appendix will be found:

"A"—List of engagements, actions, affairs and skirmishes, in which New York troops participated during the year 1861, with the name of the organization or battery or detachment, and the name of the commanding officer of each; compiled from official and private sources and containing references to authorities in which the services of New York troops are mentioned.

President of the New York State Soldiers' and Sailors' Home; member of New York State Gettysburg Battlefield Commission, 1886, to April 14, 1894. Died at Brooklyn, N. Y., April 14, 1894.

Major-General Daniel Edgar Sickles, U. S. A.

General Sickles was born in New York city, October 20, 1825. He studied for two years at the University of the City of New York, but left before graduation on account of ill health. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1846, opening an office in New York city. He was elected to the Legislature as a Democrat in 1847, and at once took a prominent part, particularly in matters relating to the city of New York. In 1853 he was appointed corporation attorney of New York city, but resigned the same year to become Secretary of Legation at London, under James Buchanan, who had been appointed Minister to England by President Franklin Pierce. In 1855 he returned to this country and was elected State Senator after a very interesting canvass. He established the Central park in the city of New York during his term as Senator. In 1856 he was sent to Congress, to which he was returned in 1858 and 1860.

At the outbreak of the civil war he raised the Excelsior Brigade of United States Volunteers, and was commissioned Colonel by President Lincoln on June 29, 1861. September 3d following, President Lincoln nominated him as Brigadier-General, but the Senate refused, for political reasons, to confirm him, but subsequently rescinded this action. In McClellan's Peninsula Campaign of 1862 General Sickles commanded a brigade under General Hooker, and gained distinction at Fair Oaks and Malvern Hill. In the fall of 1862 he succeeded Hooker in command of the division, and bore a conspicuous part in the campaigns of Antietam and Fredericksburg. When Hooker reorganized the army, General Sickles, having been promoted to Major-General November 29, 1862, was placed in command of the Third Corps, which he led at Chancellorsville, where he displayed unusual energy, gaining the first success of the Union troops by arresting a general panic in the Eleventh Corps, rallying the retreating artillery and resisting the force of Stonewall Jackson's attack. Of his services at Gettysburg, perhaps more has been written than of any other event of the war. Here he lost a leg by a cannon ball. Although the injury was such as to incapacitate most men from further field service, General Sickles, in the spring of 1864, was sent by Secretary Stanton, as Inspector-General representing the War Department, to Georgia, to watch and report the operations of Sherman's army, then on its advance to Atlanta.

Early in 1865 Secretary Seward sent him on a confidential mission growing out of the war between Spain and the South American republics, to Colombia and other South American countries. July 28, 1866, he was appointed colonel of the Forty-second Infantry, March 2, 1867, he was breveted Brigadier-General, for bravery at Chancellorsville, and Major-General, U. S. A., for "galant and meritorious service at Gettysburg." From 1865 to 1867 he commanded the military district of the Carolinas, and adhered so closely to the reconstruction policy of Congress that he was relieved from command, and offered a mission to the Netherlands, a compliment which he declined. He received the thanks of Governor Orr, of South Carolina, in an official letter, for the justice and wisdom of his administration. January 1, 1868, he was mustered out of volunteer service, and on April 14, 1869,

MAJOR GENERAL DANIEL BUTTERFIELD, U. S. VOLUNTEERS.

Major-General Daniel Butterfield.

General Butterfield was born in Oneida county, N. Y., 1831. His father, John Butterfield, was one of the originators of the American Express Company, built the first telegraph line from New York to Buffalo, and was president of the Overland Mail to San Francisco. Young Butterfield graduated at Union College in 1849, and entered business life.

At the outbreak of the war he was colonel of the Twelfth N. Y. S. M. When Sumter was fired upon he promptly tendered his services and those of his command to the government. While awaiting proper orders he drilled and organized the Clay Guards, for the protection of Washington before the arrival of troops, to assure the safety of the Capital of the nation. This duty accomplished, he returned to New York, assumed command of the famous Twelfth, with which he again went to Washington, and led the advance of the Union forces across the Long Bridge. He subsequently commanded a brigade in Patterson's column; then the Third Brigade, First Division, Fifth Corps, long known as "Dan Butterfield's Brigade," and the same which at Gettysburg seized and held the Little Round Top, that vital position. The first guns captured in the McClellan Peninsula campaign were taken by him at Hanover Court House in a gallant charge. He also captured the first guns in General Sherman's Atlanta campaign at Resaca, in the famous charge on Hood's lines led by General Benjamin Harrison, who then was colonel of the Seventieth

Indiana, which led the assaulting column. General Butterfield commanded a division at Second Bull Run and the Fifth Corps at Fredericksburg, at the latter winning high commendation for his brave but hopeless assault, and his successful withdrawal after covering the return of the army across the river. He was then made chief of staff of the Army of the Potomac, serving on this duty through the campaigns of Chancellorsville and Gettysburg under Hooker and Meade.

The organization of the Cavalry Corps, the system of furloughs and stopping desertion, the picket and outpost duty made efficient and correct, the corps badges and flags, the inspection and thorough organization of the army, the preparation and arrangement of an efficient secret service to ascertain the enemy's movements, were all his work, and evidences of his untiring energy and splendid ability.

Wounded at Gettysburg, he left the Army of the Potomac, after participation in all its campaigns and battles to July, 1863. Upon his return to duty he was ordered with the Eleventh and Twelfth Corps from the Army of the Potomac sent to the relief of the Army of the Cumberland, participating in the battles of Wauhatchie, Lookout Mountain, Chattanooga, Mission Ridge, and the Atlanta campaign, in which he commanded the third division of the Twentieth Corps until, broken with fever, he was sent to hospital.

In the regular army he held the commission of lieutenant-colonel of the Twelfth Infantry, colonel of the Fifth Infantry and brevet brigadier-general and brevet major-general for gallant and meritorious services. In the volunteer forces he was made a colonel, full brigadier-general, full major-general, and was strongly commended for the command of a corps by Gen. George H. Thomas

Died, August 8, 1862, at Newport, R. I.; aged 52.

The manner in which the inspiration that led to the seizing of Little Round Top came to General Warren, is graphically described by him in a private letter to the adjutant of the One Hundred and Fortieth New York Volunteers, and reproduced by General Cullum in his Biographical Register of West Point Graduates:

"Just before the action began in earnest on July 2d, I was with General Meade, near General Sickles, whose troops seemed very badly disposed on that part of the field. At my suggestion, General Meade sent me to the left to examine the condition of affairs, and I continued on until I reached Little Round Top. There were no troops on it, and it was used as a signal station. I saw that this was the key of the whole position, and that our troops in the woods in front of it could not see the ground in front of them, so that the enemy would come upon them before they would be aware of it. The long line of woods on the west side of the Emmitsburg road (which road was along a ridge) furnished an excellent place for the enemy to form out of sight, so I requested the captain of a rifle battery just in front of Little Round Top to fire a shot into these woods. He did so, and as the shot went whistling through the air the sound of it reached the enemy's troops, and caused every one to look in the direction of it. This motion revealed to me the glistening of gun barrels and bayonets of the enemy's line of battle, already formed and far outflanking the position of any of our troops, so that the line of his advance from his right to Little Round Top was unopposed. I have been particular in telling this, as the discovery was intensely thrilling to my feelings, and almost appalling. I immediately sent a hastily written dispatch to General Meade to send a division at least to me, and General Meade directed the Fifth Army Corps to take position there. The battle was already beginning to rage at the Peach Orchard, and before a single man reached Round Top the whole line of the enemy moved on us in splendid array, shouting in the most confident tones. While I was still all alone with the signal officer the musket balls began to fly around us, and he was about to fold up his flags and withdraw, but remained at my request and kept waving them in defiance. Seeing troops going out on the Peach Orchard road, I rode down the hill, and fortunately met my old brigade. General Weed, commanding it, had already passed the point, and I took the responsibility to detach Colonel O'Rorke the head of whose regiment I struck, who, on hearing my few words of explanation about the position, moved at once to the hilltop. About this time First Lieutenant Charles E. Hazlett, of the Fifth Artillery, with his battery of rifled cannon, arrived. He comprehended the situation instantly, and planted a gun on the summit of the hill. He spoke to the effect that, though he could do little execution on the enemy with his guns, he could aid in giving confidence to the infantry, and that his battery was of no consequence whatever compared with holding the position. He stayed there till he was killed.

"I did not see Vincent's Brigade come up, but I suppose it was about this time they did, and coming up behind me through the woods, and taking post to the left, their proper place, I did not see them. The full force of the enemy was now sweeping the Third Army Corps from its untenable position, and no troops nor any reinforcements could maintain it. It was the dreadful misfortune of the day that any reinforcements went to that line, for all alike—Third Corps, Second Corps, and Fifth Corps—were driven from it with great loss. The earnest appeals for support drew, I suppose, the troops of the Fifth Corps away from their intended position, that is, Little Round Top, out on the road to the Peach Orchard, and so it was that the Fifth Corps reached this vital point in such small detachments.

"I was wounded with a musket ball while talking with Lieutenant Hazlett on the hill, but not seriously, and seeing the position saved, while the whole line to the right and front of us was yielding and melting away under the enemy's fire and advance, I left the hill to rejoin General Meade, near the centre of the field, where a new crisis was at hand."

There is no question whatever but that General Warren died of a broken heart, due to the mortification and humiliation that followed his removal by General Sheridan from the command of the Fifth Corps immediately after the battle of Five Forks, Va., April 1, 1865, and the refusal of the court of inquiry that was called fifteen years later, to vindicate him.

General Francis A. Walker, in his history of the Second Army Corps, expresses himself in the following language on the subject of Warren's removal by Sheridan:

"What is infinitely to be regretted is, that the brilliant and fortunate successor of Grant and Sherman did not, when the heat of action had passed, when the passions of the moment had cooled, himself seize the opportunity, which his own power and fame afforded him, to take the initiative in vindicating the reputation of one of the bravest, brightest, and most spirited of the youthful commanders of the Union armies. It would not have diminished the renown which Sheridan won at Yellow Tavern, Cedar Creek, and Five Forks, had he welcomed an early occasion to repair the terrible injury which one hasty word, in the heat of battle, had done to the position, the fame, and the hopes of the man who snatched Little Round Top from the hands of the exulting Confederates."

Major-General John Cleveland Robinson, U. S.

General Robinson was born in Binghamton, N. Y., April 10th, 1817. From July 1st, 1835, to March 14th, 1838, he was a cad^{et} at the West Point Academy, but left a year before graduation ⁱⁿ order to study law. He was appointed Second Lieutenant, 75th N. Y. Infantry, October 27th, 1839, and served at Madison Barracks, N. Y., to May, 1840, Green Bay, Wis., to 1841, and Fort Brady and at Mackinac, Mich., until 1845. He joined the Army of Occupation of Mexico at Corpus Christi, Tex., in September, 1845, as Brigade Quartermaster. In June, 1846, he was promoted, First Lieutenant; was engaged at Palo Alto, Resaca de la Palma and Monterey, and participated in all the concluding operations of the Mexican War. He made an application for appointment as Assistant Quartermaster in the Army, but although he was cordially recommended by General Worth, failed to secure it. In 1850 he was promoted to be Captain, and saw considerable service against the hostile Indians in Texas in 1853-54; was ordered to Florida in 1856, where he led expeditions against the Seminoles in the Everglades and Big Cyprus Swamp. From 1856 to September, 1861, he served in various stations in the west and took part in the Utah expedition.

He was in command at Fort McHenry, Baltimore, Md., and by a clever piece of strategy, prevented the Confederates from capturing it. In September, 1861, he was appointed Colonel of the First Michigan Volunteers. The following February he was made

Major of the 2nd Regular Infantry, and April 28, 1862, was commissioned Brigadier-General of Volunteers.

General Robinson participated in all the early engagements of the Army of the Potomac, commanding the first brigade of General Phil Kearny's division. He was engaged in the battles of Peach Orchard, Savage Station, Glendale, Malvern Hill, Fredericksburg, where he commanded a division, Chancellorsville and Gettysburg, Mine Run, Mitchell's Station, Battle of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania Court House and Todd's Tavern. He was brevetted Lieutenant-Colonel, U. S. Army, for gallantry at Gettysburg, and Colonel for his services in the Battle of the Wilderness.

He led his division in the splendid charge on the enemy's works at Spottsylvania, where he received a bullet in his left knee, which necessitated amputation at the thigh. He saw no further service in the field. June 24th, 1864, he was brevetted Major-General of Volunteers.

General Robinson's brigade at the Battle of Glendale, repulsed several attacks made by a superior force of the Confederates. Of his work in this action General Phil Kearny wrote as follows in his official report:

"I have reserved General Robinson for the last. To him this day is due above all others in this division the honors of this battle. The attack was on his wing. Everywhere present, by personal supervision and noble example, he secured to us the honor of victory. * * * * * Our loss has been severe, and when it is remembered that this occurs to mere skeletons of regiments, there is but one observation to be made, that previous military history presents no such parallel."

And of the charge that led to the loss of his leg at Spottsylvania Court House, General G. K. Warren, commanding the 5th Corps, wrote to the Adjutant-General of the U. S. Army, April 16, 1866:

“ In the flank movement to the left, begun at dark of the 7th of May, the Fifth Corps again had the lead, with General Robinson's division in the advance. Delayed as we were by darkness and bad roads, crowded with troops, until it was probable the enemy had anticipated us in reaching the desired point, yet urged by the importance of time to our success, General Robinson marched rapidly on, driving the light troops of the enemy before him, till charging directly the desired position, himself animating the advance by leading in person, he fell dangerously wounded, and his command was repulsed by the opposing infantry, already arrayed in strong force.”

In March, 1865, he was brevetted Brigadier and Major-General, U. S. A., served as Military Commander and Commissioner of the Bureau of Freedmen in North Carolina in 1866; July of that year he was promoted Colonel in the Regular Army, three months later was mustered out of volunteer service; commanded the Department of the South in '67, the Department of the Lake in '67 and '68. May 6, 1869, he was retired from active service with the rank of Major-General. From January 1st, 1873, to January 1st, 1875, he served as Lieutenant-Governor of New York State, having been elected on the same ticket with General John A. Dix, in the fall of 1872. He died at his home in Binghamton at half past four o'clock in the afternoon of February 18, 1897, the notice of his death having been formally promulgated by the War Department in General Order No. 6, February 19, 1897.

MAJOR GENERAL ALEXANDER STEWART WEBB, U. S. VOLUNTEERS.

Major-General Alexander Stewart Webb.

General Webb was born in New York city, February 15, 1835. He was the son of Gen. James Watson Webb, adjutant of the Third United States Infantry in 1826, who resigned in 1827 to become the editor of the New York Courier and Enquirer, and who was afterwards United States Minister to Brazil, holding that office from 1861 to 1870.

James Watson Webb was the son of Gen. Samuel Blatchley Webb, who was born in Wethersfield, Conn., in 1753, and died at Claverack, N. Y., in 1807. Gen. Samuel B. Webb was in the battle of Lexington and the battle of Bunker Hill, where he was wounded. He was aide-de-camp to Gen. BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES SAMUEL WADSWORTH, U. S. VOLUNTEERS.

Major-General James Samuel Wadsworth.

Major-General James S. Wadsworth was born in Geneseo, N. Y., October 30, 1807. He was the son of James Wadsworth, who was born in Durham, Conn., April 20, 1768, graduated at Yale in 1787, moved to what is now the town of Geneseo in 1790, and died there on August 8, 1844, one of the wealthiest land proprietors of the State. Major-General Wadsworth was educated at Harvard and Yale; he studied law in Albany and finished his legal education under the tutelage of Daniel Webster. Admitted to the bar in 1833, he never practiced law, because the management of his vast estates in western New York—which amounted to over fifteen thousand acres, occupied all his time. Like his father, he was an eminent philanthropist, and founded a public library in Geneseo, subscribed liberally to the endowment of Geneseo College, and was largely instrumental in establishing the school district library system in this State.

In his early life he was a Democrat, but bolted his party in 1848, became a Free-Soiler and was a presidential elector from this State on the Fremont ticket in 1856 and a Lincoln elector in 1860. A delegate to the Peace Convention held in Washington in 1861, he was foremost among those who offered their services to the Federal Government when Sumter was fired on. Governor Morgan, recognizing his high degree of patriotism and his determination to render all the comforts of a luxurious home for the rough and arduous life of the field, commissioned him a major-general, but his commission was subsequently revoked.

At the battle of Bull Run he served on the staff of Gen. Irvin McDowell, commanding Union forces, as a volunteer aide. A few days later President Lincoln commissioned him a brigadier-general of volunteers, and on August 9, 1861, he was assigned to a command in the advance under General McClellan. March 15, 1862, the President appointed him military governor of the District of Columbia. He participated in the battle of Fredericksburg, December 13, 1862, in command of a division, in the Army of the Potomac.

At Chancellorsville and Gettysburg his division, in the First Army Corps, did magnificent fighting. At Gettysburg particularly, his division was under continuous fire from 10 o'clock in the morning till 4.30 in the afternoon. Out of four thousand (4,000) men who were in the action in his division, twenty-two hundred and ninety-six (2,296) were killed, wounded or captured, an unusually large percentage. In his report of this engagement, General Wadsworth, with characteristic modesty, says:

“At about 2.30 p. m., Major-General Schurz, who had been advanced on our right, fell back after partially engaging the enemy, and left our right exposed. The enemy advanced in large force from that direction, and on our left the third division of this corps was driven back. Finding myself outflanked on both right and left, heavily pressed in front and my ammunition nearly exhausted, at 3.45 o'clock I ordered the command to retire. The movement was effected in good order, and all the artillery brought off safely, excepting one caisson, the Seventh Wisconsin bringing up the rear, and suffering heavily, with the whole of the command, from the fire from our front and both flanks.

“The severity of the contest during the day will be indicated by the painful fact that at least half the officers and men who entered the engagement were killed or wounded.

“On the evening of the 1st, we were ordered to occupy a hill on the right of the cemetery, which we held on the 2d and 3d, against a sharp attack of the enemy on the evening of the 2d and morning of the 3d, with small loss to us.

"The officers of my staff and of my command performed their whole duty without an exception. Under these circumstances I cannot particularly commend any of them without doing injustice to others equally meritorious."

On the reorganization of the Army of the Potomac in 1864, by the consolidation of a number of corps whose numbers had been decimated by heavy fighting, as brigadier-general he was assigned to the command of the fourth division of the Fifth Corps, which contained many of his old troops.

Of his death at the head of his troops while making a charge in the Battle of the Wilderness, on the 6th of May, 1864, Gen. Winfield S. Hancock, said:

"Brigadier-General Wadsworth, whose brilliant example and fearless courage always had such an inspiring effect upon his soldiers, fell while leading them against the enemy on the morning of the 6th."

Col. J. William Hoffman, Fifty-sixth Pennsylvania Infantry commanding Second Brigade, Fourth Division, Fifth Corps, in his report of the Battle of the Wilderness, says:

"At 12 m. the enemy again came forward in great force on the left of the plank-road. General Wadsworth, the division commander, who was present with the brigade, ordered it to change front forward on the left battalion, forming the line on the right of the plank-road and parallel with it.

"General Wadsworth stated at the time that the object of the movement was to take in flank the enemy as he came forward.

"The right flank of the brigade was exposed to the fire of the enemy's battery and sharpshooters, posted on the hill beyond our right, and suffered very severely. This, with the impetuosity with which the enemy came forward, broke our lines and the troops were forced back in confusion. The ground over which they moved offered no favorable opportunity for rallying the men for the first half of a mile.

“A slight elevation now presented itself, and an effort was made to rally the men. It was only partially successful and they retired to as far back as the Brock road and a quarter of a mile north of the plank-road.

“The brigade had again suffered severely in killed, wounded and prisoners. Among the dangerously wounded was Captain Burritt, acting assistant adjutant-general of the brigade. It was while being immediately in rear of the center of this brigade that General Wadsworth was killed, while in the act of cheering the men on.”

The day General Wadsworth was shot he was brevetted major-general of volunteers.

In 1862, General Wadsworth was the unsuccessful candidate of the Republican party for Governor of the State of New York, his Democratic competitor, the Hon. Horatio Seymour, being successful.

Brigadier-General Stephen Hinsdale Weed.

General Weed was born at New York city in 1834; entered the Military Academy, July 1, 1850; graduated four years later and promoted in the army to a brevet second lieutenant of artillery (second lieutenant, Fourth Artillery, December 18, 1854).

Served: On frontier duty at Fort Brown, Texas, 1855-56; in Florida hostilities against the Seminole Indians, 1856-57; and on frontier duty at Fort (first lieutenant, Fourth Artillery, November 16, 1856,) Leavenworth, quelling Kansas disturbances, 1858; Platte Bridge, Kan., 1858; and Utah expedition, 1858-61, being engaged in an expedition against Pavante and other hostile Indians, May to September, 1860, participating in skirmishes at Egan Canon, August 11, and at Deep Creek, September 6, 1860.

Served during the Rebellion of the seceding States, 1861-63; as (captain, staff assistant quartermaster, May 13, 1861, declined; captain, Fifth Artillery, May 14, 1861,) executive officer at Regimental Headquarters, Washington, D. C., August 17 to September 2, 1861; on recruiting service at New York city, September 2 to November 11, 1861; at Camp Greble, near Harrisburg, Pa., November 11, 1861, to March 8, 1862; in the Virginia Peninsula Campaign (Army of the Potomac), March to August, 1862, being engaged in the siege of Yorktown, April 5 to May 4, 1862; battle of Gaines' Mill, June 27, 1862; and battle of Malvern Hill, June 30 to July 1, 1862; in the Northern Virginia campaign, August to September, 1862, being engaged in the battle of Manassas, August 30, 1862; in the Maryland campaign (Army of the Potomac), September to November, 1862, being engaged in the battle of Antietam, September 17, 1862; and march to Falmouth, Va., October-November, 1862; as chief of Artillery Corps, at Falmouth, Va., December 3, 1862, to January 23, 1863; on leave of absence, January 23 to April 18, 1863; in the Rappahannock campaign (Army of the Potomac), April to June, 1863, being engaged in the battle of Chancellorsville, May 2-4, 1863; and in command of Artillery Brigade, Fifth Army Corps, May 10 to June 6, 1863; and in the Peninsula campaign (brigadier-general, United States Volunteers, June 6, 1863,) (Army of the Potomac), June-July, 1863, being engaged in the battle of Gettysburg, July 1-2, 1863.

Killed, July 2, 1863, at the Battle of Gettysburg, Pa.; aged 30.

His last words were: "I would rather die here than that the rebels should gain an inch of this ground."

COLONEL PATRICK HENRY O'ROUKE, U. S. VOLUNTEERS.

General Patrick Henry O'Rorke.

Colonel O'Rorke was born in County Cavan, Ireland, March 5, 1837. His parents came to this country when he was a year old and settled in Rochester. From that city he was appointed to the Military Academy, July 1, 1857, and graduated at the head of his class in 1861; and was appointed as second lieutenant in the Corps of Engineers, June 24, 1861.

Served during the Rebellion of the seceding States, 1861-63; in drilling volunteers at Washington, D. C., July 3-10, 1861; in the Manassas Campaign of July, 1861, being engaged on the staff of Brig.-Gen. D. Tyler in the action of Blackburn's Ford, July 18, 1861, and battle of Bull Run, July 21, 1861; as assistant engineer in the construction of the defences of Washington, D. C., July 23 to August 2, 1861; at Fort Monroe, Va., August 2d to October 3, 1861; with the Port Royal Expeditionary Corps, October 11, 1861, to March 15, 1862; and in the Department of the South (brevet captain, March 15, 1862, for meritorious services with the Port Royal Expeditionary Corps) making reconnoissances and constructing field works, March 15th to September (Colonel One Hundred and Fortieth New York Volunteers, September 18, 1862) 19, 1862; in command of regiment (Army of the Potomac) in the Maryland Campaign, September to November, 1862, being engaged in the march to Falmouth, Va., October-November, 1862; in the Rappahannock Campaign (Army of the Potomac), December, 1862, to June, 1863, being engaged in the (first lieutenant, Corps of Engineers, March 3, 1863), battle of Fredericksburg, December 12, 1862, and battle of Chancellorsville, May 2-4, 1863; (brevet-major, December 13, 1862, for gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Fredericksburg, Va.; brevet-lieutenant-colonel, May 1, 1863, for gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Chancellorsville, Va.), in the Pennsylvania Campaign (Army of the Potomac), June-July, 1863, being engaged in the battle of Gettysburg, July 2, 1863, when (brevet-colonel, July 2, 1863, for gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Gettysburg, Pa.), while successfully repelling the enemy's attack on the left of our line, he was killed, July 2, 1863, at the battle of Gettysburg, Pa.; age 27.

A Stirring Episode.

WHAT HAPPENED TO A COMPANY OF TROOPS OF THE NINETY-NINTH NEW YORK VOLUNTEERS WHO WERE DETAILED ABOARD THE ILL-FATED "CONGRESS."

APPENDIX "B."

OFFICIAL REPORT OF CAPTAIN WILLIAM J. McINTIRE, OF THE NINETY-NINTH NEW YORK VOLUNTEERS, THE
"NAVAL BRIGADE," WHOSE COMMAND WAS ABOARD
THE UNITED STATES FRIGATE CONGRESS WHEN SHE WAS SUNK BY THE CONFEDERATE IRON-CLAD MERRI-MAC, IN HAMPTON ROADS, VA., MARCH 8, 1862.

FORTRESS MONROE, VA., March 18, 1862.

To D. W. WARDROP, Colonel, Union Coast Guard, Ninety-ninth Regiment, New York State Volunteers, Camp Hamilton, Va.:

Sir.—I have the honor to report to you that with my company I was on board the United States frigate Congress in the fight with the iron-clad floating battery Merrimac, or Virginia, on the 8th instant off Newport News, Va.

As you are aware, my company was detail d on the 13th of January last to make up the crew of the Congress, having that day paid off and discharged over three hundred men. We remained on board practicing at the big guns until the 8th instant, at which time there were with me George L. Elder, second lieutenant, and eighty-seven enlisted men of my company. Of the ship's officers and men there were two hundred and seventy odd.

About half-past 1 o'clock p. m., on the 8th day of March, 1862, the Merrimac opened fire upon us with her two bow guns, and as she passed up the James river gave a broadside from four guns, to which we replied with our starboard battery and stern guns as long as they would reach. The Merrimac after going up the river just beyond our range, turned towards the sloop of war Cumberland, lying some eight hundred yards above us. After firing many raking shots into her (the Cumberland) she (the Merrimac) ran into the Cumberland; then drawing off a short distance (the Merrimac) renewed fire and ran again into the Cumberland when the latter commenced sinking rapidly, and very soon fell over on her beams ends. During this time the Merrimac was occasionally sending a shot into us and engaging the shore battery, L Company, Fourth United States Artillery, which was actively firing upon her. Only our stern guns could be brought to bear on the Merrimac, and those endangering the Cumberland we ceased firing. But before the Cumberland sunk, the rebel steamers Jamestown, Yorktown and a tug, which came in sight at the beginning of the action, had reached an effective position and were rapidly firing upon us, to which we gave an almost constant answer with our starboard guns.

When the Merrimac was approaching the Cumberland, finding our ship would not swing to her cable, we let it slip, set sail and ran her aground. The Merrimac, having sunk the Cumberland was placed in a raking position toward us, about one hundred yards from our stern, when she commenced a rapid and most destructive fire with shot and shell upon us, breaking the muzzle of one and dismounting the other of our stern guns.

It was only then our commander, Captain Wm. S. Smith, ordered our flag to be lowered.

The rebel steamers continuing to fire upon us, we hoisted a white flag to the peak, when, in a few minutes, the Rebel tug Beaufort came alongside. An officer boarded us, ordered the men ashore said he would take officers and burn the ship, and seemed unwilling to wait for the wounded to be taken out. But, thank God! our troops on shore kept up such a galling fire upon his vessel that he was forced to leave our decks and move his tug off in haste. When she left our side a short distance, notwithstanding our white flag the Merrimac opened on us again with shot and shell; one shell bursting on our gun deck, killed five or seven, it is said, but so many dead were lying around that it was impossible to tell which number was correct.

About the time the rebel officers left our deck, many of the men jumped overboard into the river and some twenty odd upon the Beaufort; the latter were the only prisoners taken.

ship's boats being lowered, we commenced active operations on the wounded and men on shore, and exertions were not less than a knowledge, among the officers, that the fire was increasing immediately over the powder magazine (and then we could only delay the first progress by covering the hatches, which we did); yet it was in the dusk of the evening when the officers were wounded and all the men having been sent on shore.

During the whole of this terrible engagement my men behaved with admirable bravery and coolness, and though the ship was on several times, in different places, during the action, and the wounded were falling everywhere, yet all orders were promptly obeyed and everyone kept at his post.

Notwithstanding such general good behavior, it would seem difficult, in addition to the rest, to especially notice any of my company as most particularly active and useful, and yet the concurrent testimony of the officers, and my own observation, was that Second Lieutenant George L. Elder and Private John Reel displayed the coolest and greatest activity in fighting the ship, helping the wounded, and deserve to be particularly mentioned in this report.

As soon as the approach of the Merrimac within rifle musket range, Lieutenant Elder and myself were engaged in seeing that the wounded were at their posts, helping the wounded to the cockpit, passing water buckets to extinguish the fire, and pulling on ropes to move the ship—whichever was most necessary. On the Merrimac we carried muskets to the poop deck and fired at her stern; being ordered from here on account of sharpshooters on the Merrimac, we descended to the captain's cabin, and coming from there, a shot passed through the cabin killing our quartermaster, Mr. Moore, on the quarterdeck, and the splinters of the deck knocked a marine down, and myself, wounding him very severely in the face and head and throwing Lieutenant Elder against the mainmast head. I escaped with but a slight scratch on my wrist and a bruise on my breast.

On reaching the shore, Lieutenant Elder and myself started to visit the wounded men, whom we saw in hospitals of the different regiments in Camp Butler, receiving every attention from the

APPENDIX "C."

CAPTAIN BAXTER AND HIS COMPANY OF THE ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-FIRST NEW YORK VOLUNTEERS LAID THE FLOOR OF A BRIDGE UNDER A HOT MUSKETRY FIRE.

The following communication has been received at this Department, from a survivor of the One Hundred and Forty-first New York, who was a witness of the incident narrated. Inasmuch as it is connected with the last hostile shot fired by the One Hundred and Forty-first New York, and as it concerns Colonel Archie E. Baxter, then a stripling of 20 — a man who has since become prominently identified with the affairs of the State — it is deemed worthy of insertion at this time:

The day we left Goldsboro was a memorable one in the history of the One Hundred and Forty-first. That day the regiment passed through its final engagement and was for the last time under fire. The story of Appomattox had thrilled us with joy and our scarred and weather-beaten veterans broke camp with happy hearts.

Lee had surrendered and we were about to lay aside our muskets, the faithful companions of many a well-fought field.

Our brigade had the lead. The first signs of a brush with the Rebels were a rail barricade thrown across the road, a volley of bullets, and a company of Confederate cavalymen dashing rapidly away. About the middle of the day our regiment was deployed as skirmishers in front of the advancing column. As we advanced the Confederates sullenly retreated, occasionally exchanging a rippling fire with us. Closely following in our rear came a section of Battery I of the First New York Artillery, ready and eager for a chance at the enemy. As the sun was sinking behind the tree-tops, we entered a strip of swampy woods through which we waded and floundered.

In the direction of our march and from the center of our line ran a rough, narrow road, from which the swamp stretched away on either side, as far as the eye could reach. Here we were overtaken by a major-general and his staff, and heard him direct two of his orderlies to ride up the road until they struck the Confederates. It seemed a needless hazard and a wanton waste of life.

"Ping! Ping!" the bullets came singing down the weird and gloomy way and yet the two brave soldiers rode gallantly on. As we passed on we found one dead by the wayside and the other bleeding and quivering in the grass.

From the Rebels came a rattling fire, the bullets whistling over our heads and chipping the leaves, that came rustling down. On through the swamp we stumbled and floundered and then we came to a sudden halt. In front, parallel with our line, ran a deep stream sixty or seventy feet wide. The bridge was practically destroyed. Not a plank was left on it; nothing but the bare cross-beams, ten or twelve feet apart, remained.

Up from the rear, through splattering slime and song of bullets rode an aide from the general's staff, saluted Major (William) Merrell, commanding the regiment, and whirled rapidly back. The major quickly turned to Company E, then standing with its left flank near the right of the road, and commanded by Captain Archie Baxter. Shrill as a bugle blast rang out the major's order:

"Captain Baxter, by the left flank move your men across the bridge, then deploy the skirmishers and push the Rebels from the woods."

The incident was a thrilling one.

Captain Baxter was a mere stripling of a boy of 20; with a curious look as if fully aware of the peril of the undertaking, but too much of a soldier to hesitate where duty led, he quickly stepped to the left of his company, out into the road, near the bridge, where he was greeted by a shower of bullets from the Rebels beyond that would have blanched the cheeks of the bravest veteran.

At a glance he seemed to realize the difficulty as well as the danger of the undertaking. As he turned toward his men there flitted over his resolute face a look that seemed to ask: "Tell me, in Heaven's name, how I can take you across that bridge,—there is nothing left but cross-beams, a dozen feet apart?"

Suddenly, in the bushes that bordered by the running stream, he caught sight of some planks that the Confederates had torn from the bridge. Seizing an end of one he ordered Corporal Duvall, of his company, to assist him. Standing the plank on end, with the bullets whistling over their heads and by them, these two heroes let it drop on the nearest beam. Out on this Captain Baxter sprang, with the deep, sullen stream below, the bullets swarming like bees and stripping splinters from the planks. It seemed impossible that he could reach the other shore alive. It is not difficult to imagine the boy's thoughts at that time.

Lee had surrendered and the war was practically ended. Baxter had awakened at reveille that morning, believing that the march led towards home, that then seemed almost in sight. Young, ambitious, talented, proud of the scars won on other fields, death at such a time would have been a doubly cruel fate. And yet it was laughable, after the passageway was laid, to see the men of the company skipping for dear life over the planks, that bent beneath their hurried tread, as they crouched low to escape the bullets; and oftentimes it was comical to see them jump as they reached the other bank, far out of the road into the mire and slush and slime of the swamp on either side.

Quickly opening fire upon the Confederates, springing like Indians from tree to tree, Captain Baxter and his company drove the enemy slowly through the woods out into the opening.

By this time the main line of our troops had put the bridge into shape to permit the artillery to cross. Battery I came thundering up the road, the guns were quickly unlimbered, and amidst the

LETTERS FROM AARON P. BATES, OF "D" COMPANY, ONE HUNDRED AND SECOND NEW YORK VOLUNTEERS, REGARDING THE BATTLE OF CEDAR MOUNTAIN, VA., AUGUST 9, 1862.

Telegram. Received at Brooklyn, August 13, 1862. Dated

CULPEPER COURT HOUSE, August 13, 1862.

Rev. E. O. BATES, 50 Preston:

No one of Company D, One Hundred and Second New York was injured in battle Saturday last.

A. P. BATES.

HEADQUARTERS ONE HUNDRED AND SECOND REGIMENT, N. Y. VOLS.,
CULPEPER COURT HOUSE, August 13, 1862.

Having an opportunity to write I now embrace it. I have not before had anything to write with or on, and if I had, no chance to send my letter. I am well every way, except somewhat weak. I suppose by this time you are very anxious to hear from me, and how I came along in the fight at Cedar Mountain. On Friday last we received orders and marched at 8 a. m. from Washington and at about 10 p. m. reached Culpeper Court House, where we encamped for the night in a graveyard.

The day was hotter than anything I have seen north, and the soldiers had to fall out, many sunstruck; and Saturday it (I think) was still hotter. Early Saturday morning we marched through the town in fine style and lay about one mile from it until noon, awaiting orders. We then marched on towards Gordonsville, five miles, where we met the enemy. I, however, being overcome with the heat after marching nearly four miles fell out and lay by a woods half unconscious, till the firing of cannon aroused me and gave me the strength of a man. I would say while I lay in this condition some one had the kindness to steal my sword. I, however, happened to get another before I got in the fight by good luck. I arrived on the battle ground long before the enemy attacked my division (General C. C. Augur's) and was consequently with them at the opening. This was before 4 p. m. It commenced by a shower of heavy shot and shell at the battery which the One Hundred and Second had to guard and which was right before us. Three different Rebel batteries fired on us all at once, and shot and shell fell over our men for two hours without cessation.

We then advanced up the hill toward the most prominent Rebel battery, headed by General Prince, who courageously led us on, and was taken prisoner. The regiment was in charge of Major (Lieutenant-Colonel) James C. Lane. As we came over the brow of the hill our men were fearfully mowed down, but not one faltered, but gallantly pressed on over three fences, tearing them down, almost as though nothing was before them, and advanced partly through a cornfield, when we came right upon the enemy. Both parties then dropped, and the battle raged in earnest. Our musketry was without any cessation, and theirs was the same. The balls came in perfect sheets around us, besides this, flank batteries played upon us with heavy shell.

We advanced till darkness and want of ammunition compelled us to leave the field, which we did in perfect order, the men appearing as cool as they would walking down Broadway. The One Hundred and Second had the most dangerous position, as we had the extreme left of the line, that is of those regiments which advanced, and we entered the field from the right and the Rebels from the left, consequently bringing us near their reserve forces and their road. We lost 111 killed and wounded out of about 200 which went on the field, fourteen or fifteen of whom were killed. Out of twenty officers, nine were wounded and one captain (Julius Spring, Co. H.) killed. The Rebels' sharpshooters were right alongside of us, covered by a stone wall on the left, and some up a tree aside of the wall, but few of our men saw them during the engagement. They commenced picking off the officers from the left and took every company till they got to the third from the right. My company was the second from the right. They, however, wounded one of the right company, and maybe two, as one of them is still missing, not above counted. Every company lost fearfully except Company D, which was not even scratched, except one man in the face, but this was not hardly a skin cut. No reason can be given by any one for this, as my men were as much exposed as any others and fought the same. The One Hundred and Second was the last regiment of the left wing off the field, and it is said that General Sigel said that if it had not been for this regiment the whole of Banks' Corps d'Armee would have been cut up.

It was dark when we retired, but covered the battery. We were however flanked on each side by the enemy, so that we received the fire from three sides, and were completely cut off from the forces on the right. In fact the Rebels got on our right and shut us off from the road so that we marched straight to the rear into and through a woods before we could get from them. When we commenced to leave the field I became so weak that I only got over the three fences and then fell behind the regiment; the major halloed for me to come on, and one of my boys ran back and pulled me along. Before he reached me, however, a company of sharpshooters fired a volley at me alone; they were not one hundred yards off. After this I would not have gone any further to save my life and even begged to be let alone.

The officers and men carried me the remainder of the march, except some distance a lieutenant-colonel of some regiment got off his horse and put me on. I never in my life had such feelings of exhaustion. Our division fell back in the evening and became the reserve. My sleep was good that night. The battle has not been renewed, but the Rebels have retreated under an armistice to bury their dead. Some of our forces have advanced, but yesterday this division was ordered back to Culpeper Court House, where we now are.

This is a beautiful little town. The railroad cars commenced running here Friday last, and it now is a very busy mart. You cannot, however, get a mouthful of victuals in the whole town.

I have seen the Herald of Monday and Tuesday, but neither gives a very accurate report and does not speak of the left wing, no more than to simply say it was engaged. I do not anticipate any more fighting for this regiment for the present. I have some idea that we shall be sent to Fredericksburg in the place of McDowell (General Irvin McDowell) who is now near the battle field. I telegraphed to-day and should have done it sooner if I could have got it through.

CULPEPER COURT HOUSE, August 14, 1862.

I wrote to-day to you, but some say that it will not go for a few days and having a chance to send, now write this. I am well. I was in the severe engagement of Saturday last, but came out uninjured; the same can be said of the whole of Company D. Every other regimental company lost fearfully. By the regimental returns we took in action, 200; killed, 1 captain and 13 enlisted men; wounded, 88; missing, 9; total, 111.

Over one-half the commissioned officers were injured.

We gained the field during the day but withdrew at night and the Rebels skedaddled. The main body of our forces have advanced but my division was ordered back to Culpeper Court House. I rather think we may go to Fredericksburg, which will be very pleasant for us. You will receive my other letter soon, which will explain more fully matters and things here.

APPENDIX "E."

A Very Close Call for the Colors.

THE COLOR BEARER SHOT DEAD; THE FLAG FALLS UNDER HIM; ALBERT BAUR DISCOVERS IT, RESCUES AND MAKES OFF WITH IT, REGARDLESS OF THE ENEMY'S DEMAND TO SURRENDER.

APPENDIX "E."

LETTER FROM ALBERT BAUR, FIRST SERGEANT, A COMPANY, ONE HUNDRED AND SECOND NEW YORK VOLUNTEERS, TO COLONEL LEWIS R. STEGMAN, DESCRIBING HOW HE SAVED THE REGIMENTAL COLORS FROM FALLING INTO THE HANDS OF THE ENEMY AT THE BATTLE OF CEDAR MOUNTAIN.

How I would like to be with you on this day (of the regimental reunion in 1892) when each of you will be recounting thrilling incidents of the camp, the march, and of that bloody, shell and bullet-riddled field in Virginia, thirty years ago. What memories it awakens! It seems but a step to look back; and how strange that yesterday, while sitting in my office thinking of the reunion and who would be there, I was handed an Atlas, a part of the Official Records of the Rebellion, published by the War Department. On opening it I was startled; I had opened it at a page on which was a map which had the following heading:

"The battlefield of Cedar Mountain, fought August 9, 1862."

It was a strange coincidence, my sitting there and dreaming over the scenes enacted on that field, and then without any warning have some one hand me the official documents to help me out in my wanderings. I never before knew why it was that our regiment was overwhelmed and nearly annihilated. A glance at the map explains it all and makes everything clear to my mind. I hardly slept any last night thinking over it, and as you will all be full of reminiscences, and, never having to my knowledge told you about my experience at the battle of Cedar Mountain, and how, by the merest chance, the Rebels did not get the colors of the One Hundred and Second New York, if you can have a little patience with me I will endeavor to give it to you. I have made a rough drawing of the government map* (which I enclose) to help explain.

After passing through a piece of woods we came to an open field on the left of the road. While we were still in the road some shells from the Rebels scattered a regiment of cavalry which had taken a position in the field; after the cavalry had skedaddled we moved into the field and left obliquely forward until we were nearly in the rear of the Hudson house, where we lay while our batteries were having a duel with those of the Rebels. After lying there a considerable length of time, General Henry Prince rode up in our front and ordered us forward. Our regiment obliqued a little to the right and passed between Robinson's and Geary's four-gun batteries, which were hotly engaged and had nearly been silenced by the enemy. After passing the batteries we went into a plowed field, where we could see the bullets throwing up the dirt in our front. We soon passed this fatal line and in an instant were in the seething, burning, hell-ridden cornfield, where the screech of the shells, the ping of the bullets and shouts of the men, together with the fearful havoc in our ranks, made it possible to imagine oneself in a veritable hell with the concomitant devil and all his imps.

I distinctly remember hearing General Prince say just as we were passing the batteries: "There is no one in front of you but the enemy." It appeared as if we had gotten right in the midst of him. Among the first to fall, I recall Lieutenant William G. Leask, Corporals Jim White, French, Joe Donnelly and others.

After getting well into the cornfield and seeing no one and hearing nothing but shell and bullets coming from the direction of the Rebels, our men opened, firing rapidly, at will; in a short time we saw men coming up the slope in front and through the corn. In the smoke and excitement I saw many of our men firing right into those coming towards us; we made the discovery that we were firing into the Eighth and Twelfth Regulars, who had been posted behind a stone wall at the foot of the slope in front of us. One of them, a lieutenant with quite a heavy beard, came up to me and said: "My God, it is hard to be shot by your own men." He had one hand on his head and the other on his belt behind him; as he turned I saw a bullet hole right in the center of his sword belt. He turned and went to the rear.

In the terrible fire and the slaughter that was being done in our ranks I was kept busy, until I heard the yelling in our front and the rattle of musketry coming nearer. I saw some of our men leaving for the rear.

When Joe Donnelly was shot he lay right in the ranks, groaning and calling for help and telling us he was shot in the groin. He had turned himself on his back and appeared to be resting easier; in this position he lay about three or four feet in rear of the ranks or line of battle. After a while I noticed but very few of our men, and those that I did see were retreating. I then got off my knees and turned to the rear. I stepped across Joe, and as I did so, he called to me: "For God's sake, Al, do not leave me, take me along." I told him that I was afraid that from the sound of the bullets and the yelling that we were being surrounded and that I feared we would hardly be able to get ourselves out, but that if we were not surrounded I would come back for him. I then took his hand and said: "Goodbye, Joe."

He replied: "Goodbye, Al," and I turned to run as I could then hear the Rebels yelling only a few feet in front and on our left flank.

As I turned I saw a short distance from me and between the rows of corn, a flag lying on the ground; I ran to it and saw that it was our flag. William Lawless, corporal of Company A, attached to the color guard, was lying partly on the flag; he was dead. I took hold of him by the shoulder and turned him partly over and pulled the flag from under him and started again.

By this time I could hear the Rebels yelling and calling out, almost in my ears, to surrender. The dense smoke made it quite dark in the cornfield and I paid no heed to their demands but started back as fast as I could jump; men were passing me on either side and I had hardly straightened up when two or three Rebels ran right across my front yelling, "Surrender, throw down your gun, G--d d--n you;" all the time the guns seemed to be going off so close to my face that I thought I could feel the fire. In my rear they kept calling on me to surrender, or perhaps calling to others of our regiment who were being taken, as many of them were that evening.

I must have been too badly frightened to know what I was doing for I kept right on, and when I came out of the cornfield I ran right in front of a Rebel line of battle that was coming from the direction of our regiment's left. They were firing rapidly and their whole front looked like a sheet of flame, the flashes becoming more vivid each moment as the field filled with smoke and it was becoming dusk. All the time those nearest me were shooting and calling on me or some one else to surrender. Everything seemed ablaze about me and I ran first one way, then another; all the while the devils were passing me from my rear and right and the din was so great that it took but a short stretch of imagination to convince me that I was in a perfect hell. The shooting, yelling and orders to surrender, together with the whiz of the bullets was terrible and I have often wondered what kind of a mix it was that I had gotten into.

The solution I arrived at long ago, however, was that I got into the angle formed by the column of Rebels that was advancing upon our front and the column that was coming up on our left flank and that I was right in the midst of these two skirmish lines in front of their respective lines of battle. I cannot imagine though why they did not turn me to their rear or how I ever escaped being shot as full of holes as a colander, especially when I ran across the front of their line of battle that was advancing from the direction where the left of our regiment had been.

Now as I look back and see every phase of the scene re-enacted, I can only account for my escape that my movements must have been entirely mechanical and that I lost all control over my every action except the desire to escape and carry the flag with me.

This thought, I remember, was uppermost in my mind and paramount to all others, so I paid no attention whatever to any command or order to halt, surrender, throw down your gun or anything else in my mad race.

After getting out of the cornfield and when passing the Rebel line coming from our left (I was going to the rear and it was my right) I obliqued to the left, still hanging on to the flag and my musket until I got near the Hudson house, near which I saw Captain Robert Avery and a part of the regiment. When I reached the ground where they were, I gave Captain Avery the flag and asked him to give it to some one else. If he is at the reunion and you get to talking about it I have no doubt that he will remember the circumstance as he wrote to me about it afterwards.

The regiment was on a pretty lively double-quick when I reached it, and only an instant of time intervened between my arrival among them and the delivering of the flag into safe hands by Captain Avery. We then continued on in the direction of the rear of the Hudson house.

In some manner, ever after unaccountable to me, I again became separated from the regiment and in going down the hill to the right (my left) of the Hudson house towards the run in rear of that house a whole host of Rebels passed me, yelling and screaming at the top of their lungs and calling on me to surrender. I kept on and crossed the run like a race horse.

There was a two-wheeled ambulance on the north side of the run; I passed in front of it; at the same time a Rebel was climbing in at the rear end, while Corporal French of Company A was sitting up on the inside. French had been shot in the left breast with a piece of ramrod shortly after we entered the cornfield. He fell close beside me and sat up in front of me; pulling the piece of ramrod out he said to me, "I am killed, have me carried off." Then he lay down and straightened himself out and I suppose waited to be carried off. I do not know when he left the field, but I recollect that when I saw him sitting in the ambulance I thought he could not have been badly "killed" if he could beat me running.

He was taken back by the enemy and the next day recaptured from them in a charge made by our cavalry.

When Culpeper was about to be evacuated and all our wounded sent to Washington on the train, I took him to the depot and tried to induce him to get on the cars; he had, however, seen a bakery and insisted on going back to buy some pies. When he returned, the train had left and I told him to go to the devil and left him to take care of himself. After we evacuated Culpeper he lagged behind and was again captured; he never rejoined the company. We heard afterwards that he was a hospital steward in Washington. He was said to have been a brother of Lord Clarendon who had command of the Agamemnon, the companion ship of the Great Eastern in laying the first Atlantic cable in 1858.

But I am digressing. After passing the ambulance it began to grow dark, and I dodged around among some bushes until I reached the woods in rear of the battlefield, and there found part of our regiment and brigade with General Greene, or perhaps at that time Colonel Greene; General Prince had been captured in going from the right to the left of our regiment during the progress of the battle. When he (General Prince) reached our company he was coming from the direction of the regiment on our right; he called out, "What regiment?"

Some one replied, "One Hundred and Second New York."

He then called out, "One Hundred and Second New York give way to the left, your are crowding regiments on your right."

He then rode towards the left of the regiment and I afterwards heard that he rode beyond our regiment and up to a North Carolina regiment and was ordering the One Hundred and Second New York to "give way to the left." Then they gathered him in.

The fact is, the rebels were formed in sort of a half circle and when the right of our brigade was nearly a quarter of a mile from the enemy, the boys on the left of our regiment could almost touch them with their guns and it is no wonder that they were crowding to the right. The losses in killed, wounded and missing show that the One Hundred and Second held the post of honor without a sign of support, and held it too after our troops in the center gave way and retreated. From the very first the One Hundred and Second was nearly surrounded, for they were marched right into a pocket formed by the Rebel lines. When the Rebels advanced they did so en masse and upon the One Hundred and Second New York, which was entirely without supports.

When I reached the brigade, or what was left of it, under General Greene, the Rebels had possession of the field and their bands were playing "Dixie," "Bonnie Blue Flag" and other airs. I was in one of the last if not the very last file; General Greene hearing the bands playing said, "There! our men are in possession of the field. Halt! About, face! Forward, march!"

We started and had gone a short distance when some officer rode up and said, "General, those are Rebel bands; they are playing Rebel tunes."

General Greene was not three feet from me when he said to the officer, "Attend to your own business, sir; I know when I hear a band playing."

I had just come from that direction and knew the airs the bands were playing, but was fool enough to march along until we ran almost into the muzzles of the Rebel battery stationed on the knoll where our batteries had been. When the skirmishers opened on us we did not wait for an order to about face. We never stopped until we were halted about two miles south of Culpeper, lying there until next morning when we moved nearer the front.

SECOND LETTER.

C. C. Cusick:

Dear Sir.—Herewith find a copy of new order I got sent to-day to Sturgeon in your behalf. The order was sent a few days ago, to which I before referred, but I found it was modified or altered from what it was shown me after I left the office of Adjutant-General Thomas. I have, to-day, got them to go as far as above stated, but cannot any further. Stanton will give no new grants in this direction, but will take all men recruited or those you have agreed to take, not exceeding 300. This number, you stated, you had held out encouragement to, and I got that put in. I doubt not this will let you out satisfactory to all concerned.

CAPTAIN CUSICK FIRES A FEW BOMBSHELLS INTO THE SCALPING SLANDER.

NO. 15 PARK STREET, ALBANY, N. Y.,

February, 5, 1896.

Mr. HUGH HASTINGS,

State Historian, Albany, N. Y.:

MY DEAR SIR.

From a little pamphlet recently published entitled "Capture, Escape and Recapture of Joseph O. Lopez, Co. F, Ninety-ninth New York-Volunteers," the following brief extracts are taken:

Extract I.—"At Beech Grove, N. C., on the 22d of July, 1864, I was captured by twenty-two men and a captain of Colonel (John N.) Whitford's command, Sixty-Seventh North Carolina Infantry, from Kinston, N. C. Colonel Whitford's brother, a major (Edward Whitford), was stationed on the Neuse river, two miles from the place of capture."

JUST BEFORE CAPTURE.

Extract II.—"Took a smoke, and talked about the chances the Rebs had to get us. All at once I saw a man coming from the river. We got our rifles and stooped behind the rails, but he came right on, walking in the middle of the road. Pretty soon we could see that he wore our uniform but his face looked black. On he came, swinging his rifle in his hand as though it was a stick. When he got closer, I went out to meet him and found him to be one of the Indians of the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York. We asked him how far away the Rebs were and he put up two fingers. I said "Two miles?" and he nodded yes, so we felt easy and let him pass. We thought no more of danger, as he had the night before been in the Rebel camp. Colonel Whitford told me so afterward, and said he would give $100 for his head."

IN CAPTIVITY.

Extract III.—The Rebs then stripped us; they tore my watch from my neck, took away my jacket and told me to take off my shoes. I told one of them that those were private property and that I would not take them off. I had not long since paid six dollars for them in New Berne. He put his gun to my head and said, "If you don't take them off, I will blow your brains out."

Extract IV.—"When we got across to the major's headquarters he sent for me and asked me what regiment and company I belonged and all about our capture and said, 'It's lucky for you that you do not belong to the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York, or you would be strung up, and I will tell you why. It's because the Indians of that regiment scalped our wounded at Batchelder's Creek bridge, and we will hang every man of the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York that we can get hold of.'"

Lopez concludes—"The boys of the One Hundred and Thirty-second know if this is so or not."

Well, dear Historian, for the interest and honor of the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York, it is fortunate that this little pamphlet fell into your and my hands.

Beech Grove is only a short distance from Batchelder's Creek bridge. The dusky soldier of the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York spoken of was Abram Powlis of Company D; he was enlisted by me at Syracuse, N. Y. While he was on duty at Beech Grove, he was frequently permitted to go beyond our picket line, and often ventured to cross the Neuse river and visit Major Whitford's camp. He became well known by the men of Major Whitford's command as an Iroquois and a member of the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York.

It was a singular fact that he was accorded immunities by the enemy; he was free to come and go, and had the freedom of the country beyond our lines. He was truthful, brave and loyal, was a useful, honorable and reliable scout. Why did not Major Whitford hang him? The many men of the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York, captured on the Batchelder's Creek picket line, were invariably treated as prisoners of war.

Why did not Colonel Whitford and his brother, the major, hang them?

I answer, for the reason that they had no just cause to resort to such unmilitary-like measures. The reputation borne by the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York, in the estimation of the enemy who confronted it for two long years, was of the highest character. They always rejoiced if, by the accidents of war, they fell as prisoners of war into the hands of the One Hundred and Thirty-second, and, as Confederates denominated it, York State Regiment.

I am amazed at Joseph O. Lopez's lines in Extract IV, on the subject of Major Whitford's charge of inhumanity to the Confederate wounded at Batchelder's Creek by members of the Tuscarora company. To write and say, "The boys of the One Hundred and Thirty-second know if this is so or not," is hardly a reasonable and justifiable expression, for the good reason that the Ninety-ninth New York and the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York served together, side by side, on picket in skirmishes and engagements for over two long and trying years, consequently knew each other well.

"It is false, and false as hell itself," should have been Lopez's lines.

It is to be regretted that he did not deny Whitford's charge in three English words, "An infernal lie." I entertain the thought that Major Whitford never had the opportunity of confronting on the banks of Batchelder's Creek, with his or any other command, the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York. This regiment engaged the enemy but twice at Batchelder's Creek, May 23, 1863, and February 1, 1864. I was present in both engagements. In these engagements the enemy did not leave his wounded in our hands for even a moment, for the reason that we simply occupied our own ground on the defensive. I can truthfully say this, that no Confederate wounded was seen by us during or after the two engagements referred to. It is a noticeable fact that the enemy's killed and wounded were invariably and promptly removed to the rear.

In the engagement of February 1st, our dead was subsequently found, stripped of clothing to absolute nakedness, and the mockery of burial accorded the dead without a grave and covered with only two inches of earth, leaving it convenient for hogs to feed on the remains. The men killed on our side were shot either in the head or face. I have no doubt the enemy killed were also so shot, being the part of the person usually exposed to fire.

Brave Major Whitford might call it scalping at long range, and that with Belgium muskets. I spurn with contempt and disdain Whitford's libellous charge made before Lopez; I write "from the cards" and know what I express as being the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

* * * * *

Cordially yours,

C. C. CUSICK,

Captain U. S. Army.

GENERAL CLAASSEN'S COMMUNICATION.

In connection with this episode, General Peter J. Claassen sent the following communication:

TO THE STATE HISTORIAN:

An issue of the New York Church Journal in 1863 contained as follows:

* * * "The following extract of a letter written by an officer in the United States army at New Berne, N. C., to his father in this city (New York), and published in one of our daily papers, on Monday, shows how we make war on Rebels.

There are two companies of Indians in Colonel Claassen's Regiment, and every Rebel they caught yesterday was killed and scalped, and it served the devils right."

Upon seeing this outrageous falsehood, I addressed a note from the seat of war to said Church Journal indignantly denying the statement, and requesting the lying writer's name, in order to have him punished as he deserved; but nothing was further heard about it.

The origin of this story is no doubt owing to the following facts: When in the fall of 1862, troops were badly needed and the Empire Brigade wanted but a few hundred men to march for the front, my late good friend General Cuyler Van Vechten, Inspector-General, State of New York, offered to order to my regiment some 200 men and officers to report to me, thus enabling me to march at once, which I gladly accepted.

Among these were some thirty or forty Tuscarora Indians, under Lieutenant Cornelius C. Cusick. These men proved as skirmishers and sharpshooters very desirable, and Lieutenant Cusick ("War Eagle" as he was affectionately called by his men) proved a brave and intelligent officer.

I was ordered by Major-General J. G. Foster to march to and cross a certain creek with the One Hundred and Thirty-second New York and a detachment of cavalry. Upon reaching this creek, another officer of my grade, with an engineer corps, was to prepare the crossing of this creek. A rain storm during the night had considerably swollen this stream, and as this engineer officer was a "West-Pointer," possibly some jealousy existed for not paving the way for me. At any rate, upon arriving there, nothing had been done, and I had to do what the other officer should have done. I set to work at once, and the Rebels opened on me from a "masked battery." We could not cross to silence their guns, nor could my men live to fell trees to cross upon. I then called Lieutenant Cusick, desiring him to send "Big Ike" of his Indians to me with his telescope rifle. "Big Ike" was a "famous shot" and he picked off every man who showed himself near the Rebel guns until the Rebel force was depleted so they could not operate their guns, and I finally crossed, but too late to co-operate with General Foster's own command. It was this unusual slaughter of brave foes that no doubt started that "scalping story."

I desire further to add that Lieutenant Cusick and his men were part of Captain Green's flanking force at Jackson's Mills, June 21, 22, 1864. Captain Green posted a score of Lieutenant Cusick's dusky warriors in a roadside thicket, with instructions to closely guard the rear, allowing all to pass him coming from that direction, thus completely trapping the Rebels as stated in my report of February 10, 1896, and showing that Lieutenant Cusick and his men were able, open and brave fighters.

Respectfully yours,

P. J. CLAASSEN.

PRIVATE LOPEZ ADDS A FEW ADDITIONAL FACTS.

The following letter was received from Mr. J. O. Lopez, of Company "F," Ninety-ninth New York Volunteers, as supplemental to the statements of General Claassen and Captain Cusick:

BODKIN CREEK, Md., April 11, 1896.

Mr. Hugh Hastings:

Dear Sir.—My comrade, P. Correll, has sent to me the testimony of Colonel Claassen and Captain Cusick to show the falsity of the scalping of the wounded Rebs. They surely ought to know. Now, in regard to my reviving this charge against the One Hundred and Thirty-second Indians is this. Colonel and Major Whitford told me so. I did not hear one word about it until my capture, and, in writing my narrative, it was natural I should mention everything that occurred to me. That part could have been left out, but if these officers would tell me, no doubt they told others, and I think it is right I should mention it and then let the members of the One Hundred and Thirty-second deny it if it is false. This is none of my own making, like the officer in New Berne. This is from the Rebs, without asking.

I neither asked questions or answered any more than I could help, when I was captured. I was asked about the stations and names of our troops; about the explosion and ironclad car and many other things, but I told them nothing.

I could have been set free and never gone to Andersonville if I choose to, but I would never disgrace my flag and country, although I heard of the suffering and death in that prison.

I do not believe there was any scalping, for there were too many brave white men there to allow that, and the only way to stop this talk is to have the testimony of our officers printed in a Kinston, N. C., paper.

I will swear to what I have said. I have told the truth and do not feel myself to blame. It all rests with the Whitford brothers, and, in regard to the Indian, I do not question his bravery, but I do question his going all through the Rebels' camp just when he felt like it and in our full uniform, after what they told me. He must have been the only one on our side to do that. He could not have been from their camps very long, for it was only two miles to the river and he must have had a boat to cross it. I do not see that I can alter anything I have said; I only repeat it. Hoping our officers may set things all right, I remain,

Yours truly and their comrade,

J. O. LOPEZ,
Maynard, Md.

ORDERS made at ye Gen'rall Court of Assizes held in New Yorke beginning on ye 4th and Ending on ye 7th day of October in ye 23th yeare of his Ma'ties Reigne Annoq Domini 1671.

1871—Continued.Legislation to Improve the Value of Horses.

WHEREAS divers applications have been made unto this court from ye Inhabitants of severall Townes upon Long Island representing the great abatement that hath happened in ye Price of horses and Mares between ye time that ye Laws were promulgated at Hempstead when ye first Assessment was Ordered, and their value at this present time. Horses and Mares now yielding not above halfe so much as they were worth then, and yett they are still rated alike Concerning ye which they crave some Redresse The Court having taken ye premises into Consideration doe order in regard ye Valluacons according to ye Law being already brought in, & no provision made to supply ye deficiency of ye Same, which by Consequence will bee wanting, if an abatement according to ye present Value of Horses and Mares as well as other matters shall for this present yeare continue as heretofore ; But in ye meane time thinke fitt that som propossalls be prepared ag'st ye severall Corts of Sessions to be held in ye month of June next how to make ye Rate equivalent, if ye Peticon'rs request shall be graunted & ye Justices of the peace making report thereof to ye next Gen'all Court of Assizes, there shall be such order taken therein, as will be thought more requisite, tending to ye good & Welfare of ye Government.

Early Arguments favoring a Produce Exchange.

2 WHEREAS Severall petitions have been presented to ye Governor as well from ye City of New Yorke as many P'ts of Long Island, Request y't the Prohibicon for ye Exportacon of Corne might be taken off, & that they might have leave to send and dispose thereof at their pleasures, for their best advantage, ye w'ch was recommended by his Honor to ye Justices of ye severall Courts of

1671—Continued.

Sessions held in June last, to enquire into and give their judgments concerning ye Probability of plenty or Scarcity of Corne this present yeare, (ye uncertainty whereof was ye Primary cause of the Prohibition) ye which was accordingly done, and report thereof made unto ye Governor very Satisfactory as to the Great hopes & Expectacon of a plentiful Harvest; Yet Notwithstanding it being since experimentally found that retayning such graine within ye Governm't will prove to a generall good, inviteing strangers with shipping in for bread and flowre, & ye price no waye abased but ye rather Augmented, so Consequently can be no prejudice to ye Inhabitants, The premisses being seriously debated & maturely taken into consideration, the Court doth Order, That ye Prohibicon for ye Exportacon of Wheate in Graine, as also of Meale as it comes from ye Mill do continue untill ye next Gen'rall Court of Assizes; And also that no person within this Governm't doe presume to Export any wheat in graine, or Meale undrest as it comes from ye Mill as aforesaid, (without ye Governors Speciall Lycence under his hand and seale for ye same) under ye penalty of Confiscation of of such quantyies of wheat or meale as shall be mett with so transporting, And noe master of any Ship, Sloope Boat or Vessell shall take in any such Loading, under ye penalty of confiscation of ye said Loading, as also of ye said shipp, sloopp, Boate or Vessell so transgressing.

The Necessity for a Custom House two hundred and twenty-seven years ago.

3 WHEREAS many complaints have been made That notwithstanding ye publike Orders of ye Governor That all Vessells or boates Loaden with goodes or Merchandize should make Entry of their vessells and Loading and pay such customes as are settled by

1871—Continued.

Authority of his Royall Highnesse, & payable upon Customable Goods, ye which Orders are duely practised in this city. but neglected Elsewhere; It is Ordered, That all Boates Sloopes or Vessells coming into or goeing out of any of ye Ports upon Long Island, as well as ye East End thereof, as in any other port doe make Entry of their Vessells of Loading and pay ye Customs due (as ye Order from ye Governor doe direct) unto such Officer or officers as from time to time shall be appointed by the Governor, or ye Chief Officers of ye Customs in this place to take Cognizance of, and receive ye same; And that under ye penalty of forfeiture and Confiscation of such Boate, Sloope or Vessell whensoever they can bee mett with, according to ye Lawes and Customs in such Cases provided.

Delinquent financial Officers.

4 WHEREAS great complaints have been made as well to ye Government as to this present Court of Assizes That many of ye Constables upon Long Island, & ye Clarkes of ye Severall Courts of Sessions (notwithstanding ye strictness of ye lawes in such Cases provided; As also of severall orders from ye Governor reinforcing ye same) Neverthelesse divers of them have neglected to make up their Severall Accounts w'th ye respective High Sheriffs who successively have been in that Employ'm't, Inasmuch as to this day they are thereby hindred & disenabled from makeing up, and clearing their Accounts as ye Law doth require which proves a very great dissatisfaction to ye Country in Gen'rall, as well as in particular to those who have according to their duty performed their Trusts, yett ly under ye same Imputacon, It is therefore Ordered That ye Constables of ye Severall Townes of ye North and West Rideings, doe before ye next Court of Sessions to be held in Decemb'r cleare their Accounts with ye Sheriffs or at ye said Court

Orders made and confirmed at the Gen'all Court of Assizes, held in New Yorke beginning on ye 2d and ending the 7th day of ^{October} October in the three and twentieth yeare of his Ma'ties Reigne Annoq D'mi 1672.

The Hue and Cry Nuisance.

1 WHEREAS great abuse hath been practized in ye Government by divers persons prosecuting their Serv'ts w'th Hue & Cryes at ye Public charge ye gain whereof only redounds to themselves, It is from henceforth ordered That ye charges of all ye hue and cryes shall be borne by the respective persons concerned, for ye better security whereof caution is to bee given by those who take them out and prosecute them, unlesse in Cases of Criminalls or upon

1872.—Continued.

Capitall Crimes where all Officers and others are obliged to use their Endeavors to secure them to be brought to condign punishment which is to be borne at ye Publike charge if ye person offending hath not wherewith to make satisfaccon.

Reducing the Bounty on Wolves.

2 WHEREAS it hath been taken into consideracon how great abatement there is in ye Rates of Severall Townes upon Long Island, upon ye Account of Wolves discounted with ye constables within whose limmitts they are Killed so y't ye same to be Collected doth not answer ye Expectacon of ye publike charge, It is ordered that ye summe of 25sh lately given for a Wolfes head shall be reduced to 20sh as formerly and for whelps proporconably and y't for ye time to come for all wolves which shall be Killed within ye bounds of any Towne upon Long Island, or parts adjacent, ye one halfe of ye charge shall be borne by ye Towne & t'other by the Publicke, It is also Ordered y't each Towne be obliged for ye Preservacon of their Stock and Cattle to make and Maintaine Wolfe Pitts, which are to be directed by ye Respective officers of ye Townes to which they do belong.

Runaway Servants.

3 WHEREAS frequent complaints have been made of Servants who run away from their Masters into other Governm'ts & for want of due care & examinacon of them by the Magistrates or Officers of the Towne through which they passe, It is Ordered That if hereafter any stranger or P'son unknowen shall come to or travell through any Towne or place within this Government without a Passport or Certifiat from whence hee came, and whether hee is bound shall be lyable to be seized upon by any Officer of ye Towne or place to which hee comes or through which hee shall travell there to be secured untill he can cleare himselfe to be a free man, & shall defray ye charges of his detention there by his worke or labour if not otherwise able to give satisfaction in ye best way and manner hee shall bee found capable.

Standard Weights and Measures.

4 UPON its being represented to this Court that notwithstanding ye positive Law and severall Orders of Assizes & otherwise, That ye English Weights & measures shall be only used in these his R'll H's Territoryes which hath hitherto been respited for want of measures for Liquids & due Standards, It is Ordered that ye practice thereof be no longer delayed but ye same putt in Execucon by ye 25th day of March next under penalty in the law prescribed or what shall further be adjudged by ye Govern'r and his Councill.

Clearing out Brush and Underwood.

5 It is likewise Ordered in regard of ye great Inconvenience and decay of feeding for horses and cattle in ye woods by ye increase of Brush or underwood, which is suffered to grow up without any care taken to subdue ye same, That four dayes be appointed once every yeare for all ye Inhabitants of ye Townes upon Long Island & precincts from ye age of 16 to 60 (except those exempted by the Law) wherein everyone shall be obliged to goe into ye woods to cutt ye said Brush or underwood, ye time to be at the Discrecon of ye Officers of each Towne and whosoever shall faile therein each particular person shall pay for Every dayes default the value of five shillings.

6 THAT ye Boundaries of Townes be attended as ye Law & their respective Patents doth direct, and that ye Pambulations be made accordingly in which if any deficiency shall appeare at either of ye Courts of Sessions to be held in ye month of June next, The Towne so failing shall forfeit the sume of ten pounds to ye publike.

7 That ye lawes of ye Governm't be duly observed as to parochiall Churches, and y't although divers persons, may be of Different Judgments, yet all shall contribute to ye Minister establishd and allowed, which is no way adjudged to be an Infringement, of ye Liberty of Conscience to which they may pretend.

Severe Punishment for Hog and Boat Stealers.

8 That forasmuch as many and great complaints have been made against hoggstealers, and also against Stealers of Boats and Canooes and their Appurtenances notwithstanding ye strictnesse of ye Laws to ye contrary, & Orders to reinforce ye same, In ye which divers have been found Guilty and have past ye censure of ye Law, for a greater Terror to any person who shall for ye future attempt to do ye same, It is ordered, That the person so offending and convicted for ye same shall for ye first offence, besides a fine to be imposed by the Court receive corporall punishment of having one of his Ears cutt off to bee an Example to others, and for ye Next receive some more severe punishment as ye court shall direct or think meet.

To punish Delinquent County Officers.

9 THAT ye high Sheriffs upon Long Island Constables and Clarkes of Sessions, who have not brought in their Accounts to be audited and allowed off, do without further delay performe ye same by the time wherein ye Court of Sessions is to be held in ye respective Rideing to which they do belong, unto some persons then to bee appointed to receive ye same, under ye Penalty in ye law sett forth, on such further mulct as shall bee adjudged by ye Governor & Councill Instruction for Capt. John Baker for the well regulating the militia and other affaires at Albany.

1 Because tis in vaine, to give instructions unless you observe them punctually, you are strictly charged and required to reade them over frequently, and not to follow your own humour but my orders.

1668.—Continued.

2 You are to keepe a constant Guard in the fort, but since there is no evident danger of force or surprisall you may lessen the duty of the souldiers, whereby they may have liberty to advantage themselves by worke or trade.

August

3 You are to keepe good order and discipline wth the souldiers not lending to easy an eare to their complaints against their Landlords, but where you finde the complaint reasonable, you are to make it known to the commissaryes, who are impowered to give redresse therein, against their Landlords, or any other inhabitants who shall offer violence or Inury to the souldiers.

4 If any of the inhabitants make a iust complaint against a souldier, ye punishment of ye souldier belongs onely to y^r selfe.

5 In matters Capitall or treatyes with ye Indyans you are to sitt in the fort with ye scout & commissaryes, as the upper court, whereof you are to bee president, and upon equale division of voyces, to have the castinge and decisive voyce, but in ordinary courts for civill affaires you have nothinge to doe

6 You are to give the word to the militia officer of ye towne, and especially when any report is brought of danger, to cause more strict guards to bee kept.

7 You are to keepe a faire correspondence wth ye commissaryes, and towards all the inhabitants, and endeavour to live as brothers together, avoiding all occasions of publiq, controversy, or fallinge out, but if you have any greevance make it first knowne calmly without heate, or passion to the Court, and if they doe not give redresse, you are to remitt the matter to mee, as it was delivered to the Court.

8 Lett not your eares be abused with private storyes of the Dutch being disaffected to the English, for generally, wee cannot expect they love us, but when you have sufficient testimony against any Dutchman of words or actions tending to ye breach of peace, or scandalous defamation, deliver over ye testimonyes to the Commissaryes from whome I expect justice shall bee done.

9. You are to cause the Guard house to bee repayrd as alsoe, other necessary repairs to be made, with as little expense as is possible, knowing, the narrownes of our present condition.

10 You are to receive the third of the fynes from the Scout, as they are establisht under my hande, as also to continue the practice of giving ticketts for entyres of goods uppon sloopes as formerly, not to increase the rate but by each sloop, sende the entry signed with your hand to Mr. Vanruyven.

11 If it shall at any tyme happen that the Indians committ any violence at or neare Albany you are to ioyne in councell with the Commissaryes, what is best to bee done, till my further directions can bee knowne

12 I have taken that care for the provisions that you shall not meddle further therein

13 You are from tyme to tyme as occasion presents in company with the Commissaryes to give audience to the Sachems of all nations, and after advice with the Commissaryes returne them answers suitable to their proposalls. you are to receive their presents, and make them presents at your oune charge.

14 You are to receive from the Facter of ye greate excise 200 guilders seawan for the fringe of ye howse, the Commissaryes will pay the hiringe of the scowe alone without hands for your use twice in ye yeare.

15 There are some souldiers who have undertaken to furnish the Guard and the souldiers quarters in towne with sufficient firewood yearly for 600 guilders seawan the Commissaryes will lende them the Scowe six times at their charge but the souldiers are to man the scowe.

1668.—Continued.

16 You are to see that those bedds and appurtenances which were delivered to you to bee distributed amongst the souldiers according to their numbers bee not any wayes imbezeled nor abus'd by them, since an accompt will bee required from you of them. Page
Augt

17 You are as often as occasion presents to sende to mee to give an accompt of the state of all affaires and transactions with you, and in cases of great importance, and immergences, you are to sende expresse messengers, either Christians or Indians, according to the seasonablenes of the yeare, by either of which that can perform the journey best.

18 And forasmuch as it appears evident to mee that severall complaints being exhibited against the burgers of this towne whereof some of them are very meane in their nature, others of some yeares standinge, all tendinge, but to the unsetlinge of mens mindes and raisinge up those seedes of distrust and jelousy amongst us, which above all things ought principally to be avoided. My will and pleasure is, that to this present there bee a generall amnestia and oblivion. and for the future that no complaints bee brought before mee, but such as are of a high nature, and profes grounded upon sufficient testimonyes, and to refer crimes of smaller natures to the comnissaryes before whome they properly lye.

The wife of Cornelius Barnson Sleight and her daughter complained to ye Court; that Capt Broadhead had greivously cut beate and wounden Cornelius Barndson her husband in his owne house and y't he had also comitted his body close confined to ye guard and would not release him

Upon w'ch ye Court ordered y't ye Courts messenger should bee sent, to request Capt Broadhead to come to ye Court and their messenger recieved the following answer That if ye comissaryes would speake with him they might come to him. then ye Burgers being in armes the court endeavored w't in them lay to prevent any farther danger and thereupon ordered y't Capt Chambers & Evert Pels to desyre Capt Broadhead to release ye said Burger from ye Guard, and if ye said Cornelius Barnson had any wise offended him hee should according to ye Governours order complaine to the Magistrates who would see that hee made satisfaccon, or bee punished according to ye merrit of his Crime.

But when ye said 2 commissaryes had delivered the message to Cap'n Broadhead hee made them this answer that he would keepe the said Cornelius as long as hee pleased and if they would fetch him hee would bee ready to Wayte for Them.

The Court alsoe used many arguments to ye Burgers y't were in armes to goe quietly whome to their houses and went p'sonally themselves to perswade them y't they should not doe any thing against ye melitie but told them they would adress their cause to y'r hon'ble Governor

3 That he spoke sence very dangerous and mutinous words is proved by ye oathes of 2 Witnesses, Humphrey fforgison & ffrederick Hussey

Humphrey fforgison saith hee being once at ye house of Albert Hymens with William ffisher he heard Albert say if the Burgers would be ruled by him hee would not leave an english man alive in ye Towne, and if there were any disturbance againe by ye English, he would prosecute himselve let ye Burgers & Magistrates doe w't they would, ffrederick Hussey saith hee heard Albert Hymens say that if ye english had any quarrel again with them they would 4 or 5 fall upon one english man as the english had done upon them.

The said Samuell Mosley for and on the behalfe of Capt'n Thomas Salter Alleadgeth, that After the said Shipp now Called the Cedar had Lost company with the George friggott, William Smith the master did steare the best course he could to follow his Capt'n to Port Royall and falling Short of Provision hee ran to anchor att a place called Loggerhead Key and sent some of his company ashore to Kill Turtle for provision for the Remaining part of their voyage where they mett with the said Abraham Keeling in a Sloope and some of them being formerly acquainted the Said Keeling voluntarily left his Sloope and came on board the said Prize, and by his subtile and crafty inventions began to persuade draw and delude the company to adheare to him in the carrying on of his wicked and detestable designs for hee well knew that he durst not put foote on shore at Jamaco for his former misdemeano'rs therefore hee by his faire proposals and often persuasions effected his designe by Inveagling the company to stand to what he should propound which was to force the master to signe to such articles as they should make out and to runn away with the Vessell and loading to some port in New England there to sell her and share her and her laden, by which Evill and detestable acting Contrary to all law or honesty the said master Being Compeld thereunto did consent wherein the said Keeling Included him selfe as sharer of the vessell and loading upon what accompt is not knowne and hath had that Impudence and Confidence to Receive a share of the said Cargo and converted itt to his owne use notwithstanding hee had not any just pretence thereunto as also by his Contentious and troublesom spirit . had persuaded the Company to sell the vessell also without the licence or consent of the master which seing he could not obteyne, although he hath often tymes Attempted to trapan him thereunto, he hath assumed to himself the power of selling and disposing of severall parcells of the furniture and apparrell which belonged to the said vessell as also he hath sould an Indian man belonging to the said prize by which wicked fraudulent and dishonest actings of the said Abraham Keeling the said Capt'n Salter and his Company is by him damnified two hundred pounds starl'g, hee the said Keeling being the only fomentor actor and abettor and combinator of this unjust designe and hath all along persuaded and encouraged the company to stand in opposition against the master, thereby thinking to gaine his owne base ends though to the Ruine of the said Capt'n Salter and Companye.

The said Samuell Mosby Requesteth in all humility of their hono'ble Court to consider of the said Salters greiveances and damages that hee hathe hitherto sustayned by Reason of this Evill Instrument Keeling who hath beene the only authour and Carrier on of so much strife and unjust unlawful actings as are too tedious to Relate and to condem the said Keeling to make full satisfaccon to Capt'n Salter and Company for that share of Campacha wood which he hath Recieved and disposed of as also for the

Title

The said Samuell Mosley on behalfe of the said Capt'n Salter alledgeth that after hee the said Captain Salter and his Company had taken a small barque in the West Indies, then knowne by the name William and now called the cedar ffriggott and had laden her with Campacha wood hee ordered the said William Smith and Company by Commission under his hand to the said Smith as master establisht by him to sayle & navigate the said Barque and loading of Logg wood with an Indian and other meterialls unto her the said Prize belonging or appertayning, unto Port Royall, on the Island of Jainaco to the end that their arrival at the said port there might bee a dividend and shares made of the said Prize, and her Loading amongst the Capt'n and Company unto whom in generall shee did belong

Notwithstanding the said order as aforesaid the said Smith and company contrary to their instruccions and the articles under severall of their hands and seales bearing date the 22d of o'r 1666 and a penalty therein Exprest of ffive hundred pounds Starl did desert from and leave the company of the said man of warr and Entertained on board some other persons not (MS torn) all belonging to the friggott George or company and so (MS torn) combined connived and continued together to carry the said prize into these parts where they have contrary to order honesty or due custome in such cases Imbeszled and sould the said cargo together with an Indian man and much of the said Barques furniture to the damage of the said Capt'n Salter and his Company in the Indies 500 pounds Starl besides the principall

And the said Mosley doth further alleadge that the said Capt'n Salter is brought into greate troble in the Indies by the rest of his Company for and Concerning the prize and her loading and hee having Information that shee was arrived in these parts with her cargo hee hath by an Authenticke letter of Attorney empowered the said Samuel Mosley of Boston marriner to sue for and attach All and Every manner of goods Merchantdizes wares debts and all and Every some or somes of money that hee shall by any manner of wayes make appeare to appertayne unto him which said power he hath put in execution and is ready to produce the original Articles, which will clearely discover how perfidious and treacherously they have dealt by him and also manifests the justice of the said Capt'n Salters complaint

The said Samuell Mosley hereupon humbly Requests of this Page 47.
 Hono'ble Court that the said Barque or friggott now called the Cedar together with all her furniture and apparrell the Indian Man, and all other appurtenances belonging to her may be Condemned to the use of the said Capt'n Thomas Salter, and Company who tooke the same as lawfull Prize, and to whom by all law and Justice hee doth appertayne, As also that the said William Smith master and the company be condemned to make satisfaction to the said Capt'n Salter and Company for her laden of Campacha wood which they have contrary to orders or honesty brought into this Port and disposed of whereby they have broken their Articles and forfeited the penalty therein Exprest together with the Shares they might pretend to according to contract, and the usuall manner and Custome

 Commander of ye s'd vessell by Capt Thomas Salter plying to and frow through shortage of provisions. They were forced to sayle to an Island or place called Loggerhead Key for the killing of some turtle to supply their afores'd defect, where they met with a sloop unto w'ch one Abraham Keeling did belong Now ye s'd Keeling being greatly engaged & indebted at Jamacoe was very unwilling to returne thither againe hee very much importuned some of the afores'd Cedars Company who were his acquaintance to lett him come on board and be one of ye said vessells Company to w'ch ye said William Smith by the Companyes great desyre condended and in a short time after the said Keeling being a man of a very turbulent and seditious spirit age 48. proposed articles to be drawne betweene ye said Master and the Company for the shareing and dividing amongst themselves the said Barque Cargo and ye Appurtenances to her belonging, at ye next fort the said vessell should arrive into. Now ye s'd Master finding them dayly conspiring together and there behaviour towards him being much altered, hee was thereat greatly amazed and deadly feare they would throw him overboard or use some other violent means to make him away, if hee should refuse or denye w't they demanded they being 6 and he but one single p'son in consideracon of so imminent and apparent dangers hee condescended to signe ye before proposed & premenconed Articles alwayes supposing and hopeing that in any of his Ma'ties Courts where they should bring the said vessell hee might have and obteyne releise of the same and preserve ye said Barke for ye use of ye said Salter & Company w'ch hee ye s'd Smith after their arrival to this port used his best endeavo'rs to doe as appeareth by his severall Peticons to ye hon'ble Gouverno'r and Courts of this Citty wherefore hee humbly concerneing & hopeing y't this hono'ble Court will not at all adhere or give credit to ye false allegations or testimonies of the said Company against him p't of whome being already forsworne & Piured and ye other p't of them would have done ye like had they not binne prevented hee alwayes haveing discovered his honest intentions to preserve ye s'd Barque with her appurtenances for the use of the said Capt Salter and his company in ye Indies, humbly prayeth this hono'ble Court to dismiss him of the said suite hee not being at all concerned in the articles forfeiture or penalty And hee shall pray &c.

 pril 18 Judgment of the Court of Admiralty in the case of the ship Cedar.

1668.—Continued.

Att a Court of Admiralty held in ffort James the 13th 16th & Page 49.
18th dayes of Aprill 1668.

Upon a full hearing of the difference betweene Samuel Moseley of Boston Marriner as Attorney or Procurat'r of Capt Thomas Salter of Port Royall in Jamaica P'lt and William Smith Abraham Keeling Thomas Davis Samuel Smith, Thomas Barnes, John Hayter & Simon Joanes Master & Company heretofore belonging to the ship Cedar Defend'ts

Wee finde by the severall Examinacons of the Defend'ts taken at their first coming into this Port & by what hath beene here declared in Court That the defend'ts Wm Smith & A Keeling marriner who had signed no Articles to Capt Salter as also T. D. S.S. T.B. J.H. Simon Joanes who had signed articles & conditions to and with Capt Salter, were not in any Capacity to returne to Jamaica according to their articles & Condicons but were really forced to this Port by contrary Winds, want of Provisions sailes and Rigging & afterwards necessitated for their Releife & subsistance to make sale of the Campechio Wood w'ch was brought into this port by them and is now in Question.

It appeares likewise to this court by the s'd Articles made by the Defend'ts or part of them with Capt'a Salter (which are the sole strength of his Plea) that the s'd Defend'ts were to have a proporcon or share of whatsoever Campechio wood should be taken in that voyage and that Capt Salter returned to Port Royall in the George laden with Campechio wood

This court doth therefore hereupon Judge & order that the s'd Campechio wood now in controversey or question here as afores'd, or the product thereof doth and shall remaine to the Defend'ts proper use as the just proporcon or share of all that was taken in the s'd voyage from Port Royall the sale whereof by Wm Smith Master both sides upon this occasion.

But the ship Cedar now under Arrest at the suite of Capt'a S shall remaine for the use of the s'd Capt'a Salter with the remain of all such tackle Apparrell Cannon or Amunition as belonge the s'd vessell when shee came first into this Port. The EARLY CUSTOM HOUSE ORDERS.

Instructions for Mr. Cornelius Van Ruyven Collector of the ^{Page 51}
Customes in ye City of New York by Order of Colonell Francis ^{May 24}
Lovelace Governour.

1: You or y'r clerk are to be dayly at ye Custome house from nine in ye morning untill twelve at noone. There to recieve ye Customes both in and out, as the Merchants shall come & enter, ye Merehant is to make foure Bills, and signe them with his hand, writing his name to them, & ye same time, when you have signed ye Warrant, or one of ye Bills, you are to demand ye Custome, either in kinde at 10 P Cent inwards or double ye vallue of its first Cost in Holland, in Beaver And likewise outwards for Peltry you are to receive 10½ P Cent according to ye vallue in Beaver, for Tobacco one half penny Pr pound Ster'g: which is noe more than age 51.

all Englishmen doe pay, & y't you doe receive foure for one, (that is to say) two stivers in Wampam for every half penny, or the vallne of it in Beaver or Goods to your satisfaction.

2^{ly}: You to tell ye Merchant you are not to give credit & y't what you doe is for pr'sent dispatch for them their Signing ye Warrants is as obliging as any Bond or Bill of Exchange, And y't y'w are to have your custome w'thout any Suite at Law. It being towards ye maintaining of ye Garrison, & y't you must have it on demand; If they doe not like your propositions, you are not to pass their Bills

3^{ly}: When you have signed ye warr't or Bill you must deliver the Coppy to ye Customer & Comptroller w'ch they are to eompare & then signe, but you must signe first, w'ch will satisfy them, ye Custome is paid, or at least passed to respective accompts.

4^{ly}: If any Merchant doth make a true Entry & Shews you his Invoice y'w may Enter it in ye Book, & if ye Surveyor shall finde more, ye Merchants is to make a Post Entry; w'thout you shall see hee had an Intent to defraud ye customes, & then y'w are not to admitt of a post Entry, but goe on to prove it a Seizure: And then there must be half for ye King & half for ye Customer, Collector, Comptroller & Surveyor equally divided; But if it shall happen y't a Seizure be made by way of informacon, as thus, If a Man shall come & tell you that there are such goods landed privately in a house by night or by day & hath not paid Custome, Then one or more of you y't have Deputacons (w'ch you must be sure to carry w'th you) may take ye Constable, & goe & search any house, & take away, such Goods as you shall finde hath been landed without warrant, then ye Informer is to have one third his Ma'tie one third, & ye other third to be divided amongst ye officers.

But if you shall see cause to believe ye p'ty that shall be soe taken, Page 51. and y't you are willing to take noe advantage, you must first speak to ye Governour to give the Kings part, who hath power, & none but the Governour hath power, soe to Relieve him; But ye Informer may demand his third part by Law, or at least ought to have some satisfaction to his content, for his or any other their Incouragments.

On Bills of sight where ye Goods are brought into ye Kings warehouse to be perfected you cannot justly make a seizure, because you have ye Goods in yr possession and ye quantity or quallity or vallye is exprest in their Bill.

The Surveyo'r must come every Morning when ye Custome house is open, & give you an accompt what is passed ye day before by him.

If by y'rself you shall p'ceive any Tides-man or waighter or other that shall belong to ye Custome house to be negligent, ignorant or subject to be familiar with ye Merchants, y't you have just reason to suspect him you are to acquaint ye Governour of it that hee may be dismissed.

It concerns all ye customers officers to advise together often for the carrying on ye business w'th more security; & upon Just & true informacon to putt in Execution ye severall clauses in ye act Entitled, An Act for ye p'rventing of Frauds & Abuses in his Ma'ties Customes Fol; 63; too long to Relate here.

You are to keep a book apart for all Goods yt shall come out of Europe especially these three shipps that have liberty from his Ma'ty & his counsell to trade here for seaven yeares.

for Goods from London, Boston, Barbados Jamaica & all other Leward Islands you are to take but 5 P Cent in, & 5 P Cent out; If they give security to carry ye said Goods to some of his Ma'ties ports in Europe, & not otherwise, & of this Customes in & out you must keep a book apart, & make it up every three months, & compare with Customer & Comptroller & see if you all agree.

You must read over ye fore named Act Fol: 63: & putt in Writeing in ye Custome house ye most materiall things, yt Masters and Merchants may know what danger they may run into, if they should transgress against this Act.

What Goods you receive in Kinde, you must kcep in a Booke apart, & therein specify ye contents of sorts of Goods & their Prizes, & of whom received & what sort they be & what names they are called, & if many of one sort of Goods although received of severall; This may be brought over into one Folio after, as if it were in Accompt Current, & soe better ye Accompt as you deliver them out by order.

You are not to trade in any merchandizes whatsoever W'thout p'ticular leave from ye Governour under his hand, by reason it is against ye Law for any Collector to trade & Complaints would Come dayly to ye Governour of it; noe Customer nor Comptroller aught to trade; But by reason of Goods are received in kinde & of necessity somebody must be appointed to take that Charge for ye Carrying forward the Affaires of ye Garrison; By Speciall Leave from mee I doe Appoint Isaack Bedlow Comptroller to doe it, who medleth not with ye Reciepts of ye Customes; only such parcells as shall be delivered him from time to time by you, to Provide for the Garrison & to give an accompt thereof.

And Lastly pray lett ye Books be kept all in English and all Factoryes and Papers, that when I have occasion to satisfy myself I may better understand them.

Instructions for Mr Isaac Bedlow as Comptroller for the Customes. By order of Coll Francis Lovelace Governour of New Yorke

You are every forenoone when there is great busines to attend ye Custome house, from nine till twelve, & you are to see y't ye Merchants makes foure Bills, whereof you are to demand one before you signe ye Warrant & that you are to keep lockt up, untill you have convenient timè to enter it faire into a Book But first you are to Compare ye file or Bill w'th ye Customer & Collector, & see that it doth agree w'th that ye Collector doth signe.

2^{ly} You are to see y't ye warrants be kept in ye Custome house untill twelve of Clock, & then to deliver all that is passed that fforenoone unto ye Surveyor y't hee may doe his Duty in landing of Goods or Shipping out Goods & this Rule must be observed if you have much busines in one day, but if you have but little busines, and to accommodate ye merchant where you think there's noe ffraud intended, at ye request of ye merchant you may deliver ye Warrant to ye Surveyor to put itt immediately in execution, if hee shall think fitt; ffor observe, ye Surveyor is not to Ship on Board or Land on Shore any Goods without a Warrant; without it be when a Ship is first come in, that by order from the Custome house to take on shore all small parcells in Hold, or between Decks, or Sea-mens Chests, that hee thinks may be taken away without paying of Custome, & those Goods in such Cases hee ought to secure.

3^{dly} At y'r leasure you are to goe into ye Storehouse & see what & how ye Surveyor doth clear mens Goods, & whether hee doth Right, & that hee favours none rich nor poore, but if it must be given By Store it must be demanded at ye Custome house; for it lyes on you to see y't ye Collector & Surveyor committ noe Errors; If you finde they doe, you are to tell them of it, and to acquaint ye Customer, & then if it be not mended for the future you are to acquaint mee, that I may give directions in it: ffor ye Customer

& yourself do check the Collector and Surveyor, and they not you nor ye Customer because one receives ye money, ye other perfects ye Entry therefore you must constantly call on ye Surveyor, to perfect all Entries with what expedition may be, & so know a reason why they are not done :

4^{ly} The Collector hath not power to give for store above fourty shillings, w^{ch} is ye vallye of three Beavers, If hee shall give more, you are nott to Signe it, & ye Customers & your hand must be to all Bills of Store, but if ye collector shall tell you he hath order from mee, to grant more, lett it be specified in ye Bill of Store by Order.

5^{ly} If at any time you finde an Error in yr owne books, or mistrust there may be some mistake, you may ask for ye Collectors book or goe to him, & hee is bound to show it you to rectify all things.

6^{ly} When these Ships are discharged, or not much busines at ye Custome house, that you have busines at home, you must speak to ye Customers Clerk to take up ye ffille, & signe for you, and that you send for them every day, that you may know what passeth in ye Custom House.

Instruction for Nicholas Bayard surveyor of the customes in New Yorke

Impr^{ts}

You are to Attend at ye Custome house in ye fforenoone to take all warrants that shall be signed by ye Customer Collector & Comptroller, and in ye Afternoon to land such goods as you have Warrant for, and at ye Landing, as they come out of ye Vessell or Boat you are to sett downe ye numbers of them, quantity & quality on ye Backside of ye warrants as you land them, or to Stipell ye No : as you land them, y^t you may know what is come ashore, & what remains aboard.

1668.—Continued.

2^{ly}: You are to putt ye Goods into ye Kings warehouse: Page 52. where you are to P^rfect them, & take ye Kings part there; but in Case of Lequid Goods, if you are satisfied ye Merchant hath entred right, you may lett him take his wines away, & you secure ye tenth for his Ma^rty: It will save ye Merchant charge, & y^w will have less trouble, but then you must have a Cooper by to tast that you take not ye worst; In case all should be bad you can but be content with ye Kings part because you take ye custome in kinde.

3^{ly}: You should have a Pockett Book to enter ye warrants in, which will serve you for a Brullion, for you must keep ye Warrant faire, & enter them exactly in a Booke, word for word, mark & No: and quantity as is specified in ye warrant; ffor that in case any Error should be in ye Bookes above Stayers, your Book must cheek them; And if you should lose a file, you must come next sitting at ye Custome house & desire a Cobby & every dayes busines must be entered by itself, writeing on ye back-side ye warrant, ye true perfect Copy of ye entry & what is received, & this must be done in the Custome house publickly before all ye Officers, that they may putt itt in their Files also.

for felony and Burglary taken by ord'r of ye Governo'r before Mr
Cornelys Steenwyck May'r of this Citty & Mr Matthias Nicolls
Secretary to ye Councell ye 26 day of March 1669.

Alexand'r frizzell being Examined confesseth ye fact he is accused of, & saith that George Canada called him out of the ffort about 8 of ye clock at night before they committed ye ffelony he being going to bed when ye said Canada came but by his enticem't he went w'th him & about Eleaven o Clock at night that they ye said frizzell & Canada went to ye house of Jan Hendricks Van Gunst in ye Broad Way (Canada saying he had intelligence ye said Jan Hendricks was out of Towne, & That no body was in ye house) & w'th a peice of Iron they wrenched open ye dore & gott in, when they were come in Georg Canada shewed him ye said Alexander frizzell where ye money & Goods were so w'th ye help of some Iron they opened ye chests & tooke out ye money & goods.

Some of ye Goods being shewed frizzell he acknowledged they were ye same that were stollen by him & Canada & Jan Hendricks Van Gunst challenges them to be his goods & ye same w'ch were taken out of his house.

The said frizzell being asked how many peices of money were taken by him and his comerade out of ye said house saith there were 10 peices of eight and 1 Ducatoone, That Canada had 4 of ye peices (& a bea (MS torn) that three were now engaged for drinks at Mr Greveretts 2 at Sarah Clays, & 1 was missing

rch 23.

Being demanded how many chests were broke open he saith 3.

He saith furth'r that Canada & he did not part until one of ye Clock aft'r they committed ye Robbery, & that as soone as they had done it, they went both togeth'r to ye North Ryver syde w'th out ye Towne where they staid some tyme & Canada threw ye peice of Iron there into ye Ryver.

George Canada being Examined denyes all that he is accused of as to ye breaking open ye house & taking ye Goods, but confesseth he had some Peices of 8 of Alexand'r frizzell & ye Beaver w'ch he sold to Mr Pattison & there bought Goods w'th ye money. He confesseth further y't he injoynd Mr Pattison not to tell Capt'n Manning he had put away to him any money or Beaver because he owed Manning money.

And also said if he had ye Keeping of ye stollen things he should have hid them more Carefully then to be so discovered as Alexand'r frizzell was

This day Jan Hendricks Van Gunst enter'd into a Recognizance of 40 £ to prosecute ye said frizzell & Canada for ye felonius breaking his said house & taking & Carrying away his said Goods.

At a court Marshall held at Fort Jamse the 28th day of Decemb'r 1671.

Present The Governo'r, Mr Tho: Lovelace John Manning Capt Dudley Lovelace The Secr:

Mary dobson makes complaint against Melchior Claes a souldyer of the Garrison who was at her house with Jack Luck & Abell Hardenbrooke on Christmas day & haveing no credit for Rumme hee offered to pawne a paire of stockings which proove to bee the widd: Webbers, who was at Mary Dobsons a while before, when he went out & left her, & its thought hee went to her house thinking to find the doore open, but went over the fence & in the yard took y'se stockings & scared a boy there by offering to draw his sword. The widd: Webber also produces a smothing Iron which Melchior left with her, for a small matter hee owed her but whose the Iron was its not knoune.

Arent Isaacks shewes a knife which hee gave six stivers to Melchior for & at the same time hee stole away from him a paire of pincers that cost 20 G (guilders) which a sick child saw him take & put in his breaches.

Melchior stands in his Justification about the pincers & saith hee bought them of Jack Luck & that they are now at Abells.

Jack Luck saith he did sell to him a p'r of pincers for 10 g & halfe a pint of wine & that hee had them of one Blackleach now at Delaware. for the stockings Melchior saith hee tooke them up in ye widd. Webbers yard & that he gott over the fence there, but hee was drunke & did not know what he did.

The smoothing Iron was knowne by Osburnes wife to bee her Landladys, who is gone away but, before she went, shee made great comp'lt of the losse of it & shee s'd shee did believe that (Winelyr?) had it who is the p'son accused.

I could not in duty omit this my first oppertunitye to acquaint yo'r hon'r with the Courts proceeds against mee at Newport. In the last you had acco't of ther binding me over to ye Courts & a copie of my charge & my bond the rest is my indictment.

I Indict Jno Paine of Boston Masch't for y't ye S'd Jn'o Paine hath pr'cured a Patten from ye Govern't of New York for Prudence Iseland being a part of this collony which all of his is against the hon'r crowne & dignity of his Maj'tie & absolutely against his Mojte gracios Grant in his Letters Patten to this Collony & also a high contempt of ye authoritye of this Collony.

Except against ye Jury Record'r the s'd Mr Jno Paine being bound to ye Court appeares & the Indictment & charge to him being red & asked Gilty or not Gilty Pleades not Gilty: the Dep't Gov'r & Mr Attorneys speeck & pleas against Jno. Paine and his answ'rs as he hath to ye best of his understanding collected. Mr Paine we look at you as a quiet & Ingenuos P'son & beleve you have don this as being Ignorant. here the Law, Recor'dr the Gen'll Court of Commission'ers held for ye Collony at Warwick Novem'r 2d 1658. To prevent Inovacion in ye Gover't & libertyes of the Collony from forraigne Power it is ordered that if ani P'son in this Collony doe putt his () or ani part thereof y't within this Collonyes boundes under the Govern't of ani forraigne Power to Gouverne in any part or parts of the Collonyes precincts, the Penalty for either of these offences affores'd shall be that ye offender shall forfeit all his Landes & Estate to the Collonye. The jury have not yo'r case & If y't you acknowledge youer Ignorance & Subject you shal have w't fauor may be.

Paine I doe acknowledge my ignorance. I never knew any of ye Lawes of this Collony neither have I been concerned with them or with ye Patten of this Collony. Mr Boston one of ye hon'r bench answer'd y't about three yeers since giving him a vissit I desired y't a rate w'ch ye Towne of Portsmouth had layd uppon mee, might bee forborne & I answ'd. His worship had forgot ye passag'e. I gave him a vissit & after other discourse desired that ther might be a little suspending of the officers being sent to ye Issland to take it ther & to save my great damage y't woold therby accrew. I woold ord'r som notes to be given y'ou or shoold have some Estate of mine in Rhode Jseland which they might laye hould of if they woold take it. Mr Boston owneed these were the words as nere as he coold remember or to this same purpose. It was replied In Cour't y't ther was Rates several times payed by mee. I answer'd I had never paid ani but alwayes refused & had demanded by w't authoritye I was obliged to pay any; but never was Informed. & did then In Court call Jno. Smith & Wm Allin who had lived vppon Prudence (longer than from ther first demandes of Rates) as my tenants to Testyfy that I nevor payd to ther knowledge any Rate; but being Informed of the demandes did order y'm allways, (& forwarne y'm) to pay anything excep't they took it by Authority for I know no Reason of ther demand nor y't I was concern'd with ye Collony any wise. The Boundaries of ye Collony are hereuppon caused to be red w'ch when I heard I did redyly acknowledge y't Patten as it did by its Gen'll boundaries comprehend (except ffishers Jseland) all Jselands Inclusively within such limitts So it included this. Mr Attorney Gen'll Pleades to ye Patten to ye Law of ye Collony before Recited, to my breach thereof and contemp't therby & the Penalty: I pleaded Ignorance of ye Lawes of this collony'e of the Patten, & of being concern'd In either.

Dep't Gov'r If you have yo'r Answ'r in wrighting you may give it in.

I Answ'r if it may Pleas ye court I have collect'd w't I apprehend suttable to help my memorie & save time, but it is a Ruff draft Blotted & interlined. I shal soon draw it out, if ye court Pleas.

Gov'r, ye court hath no other bisnis now synce it wil hind'r ye cort.

 Proclamacon inseperable adjuncts & p't of ye Essence of a Patten or Commission y't gives y'm being & without which they are tempt of this authoritye. I canot charge my Self with it. It were ill becoming a Gen't or ani person of Common Reason or Educacion to contemne authority. I acknowledge his Maj'ties authority to be of a more sacred nature than to contemne it.

Dep't Gov'r You herein owne not yo'r subjection to y's Jurisdiction. I am a Private Person & passive, it is not my duty to determine ye Right of Jurisdictions for any difference of y't nature apprehended as adversative. it is of a Publiq Concearne a difference betweene y's Collony & ye Collony of New York not mine or in

I doe not See how I can Reasonably or Safely act furdur but rest passive.

Dep't Gov'r: Have you been commanded or obliged before now to act by y't or ani other Power or to y't purpose.

A: Then I have disobay'd & I woold not willingly be disobedient to ani authority derived from his Maj'tie.

Dep't Gov'r: you have great favor & freedom to plead.

I acknowledge ani favor of ye hon'rd Court.

The Court adjourns for an houre till after dinner.

The Court is Sett.

Paine apper'd, offers what he hath drawne up for ye Jury. It is re'd. It is delivered ye Jury; the jury delivers the'r verdict, Guilty.

Ye Court demands—have you any thing furd'r to propose.

Paine: I desire ye hon'rd Courts Charitable thoughts of mee I think it is not So good Sattisfaction to ye Court or so Juss or honorable for mee since the Jury hath passed & I may make no furdur Plea to my Indictm' that I add to what I have said until the Court hath passe'd ther sentance but with all submissiveness I owne authority & Shall Indeavor w'th lyeth in me to do or propose.

Dep't Gov'r: the court shews you all y'a favor & priviledge is suitable & you may take yo'r Liberty upon y'or Promise to appear on ye fourth or fifth day. wee Suppose you to vales your word. Do you promise apperance.

I do promise to appere & I valew my word more than a bond. Page

On the fifth day ye court Setts. Paine called apperes. The Sentence is Red. The Court doe Pass y'r Judgment y't in this Case: Mr Jno Paine hath transgressed ye Laws of this Collony & doe sentence him accordingly. Only Doe suspen'd ye execution until ye Generall Court of Tryalls in May next at Newpo'rt.

Jno Samford Recordr,

Ye court Expresseth y'r favorable dealing & make no furdur demands of Paine.

Paine An'rs: I acknowledge ye Courts Respeits & favor & y't they have delt wisely in giving this Opportunity for a Composure of this difference which I shall Indeavor hartly. The Answ'r was well rec'd & Paine took leave of ye court.

*Confirmation of an order made by the Town of Southampton L. I.
 relative to the wages of Indians engaged in whaling.*

A confirmacon of an ord'r made at the East End of Long Island, Nov. 22.
 about whaling.

Whereas there was an ord'r made at a Towne Meeting in South Hampton, upon the Second Day of May last relating, to the Regu-ration of the Whale ffishing, and Employment of the Indiyans therein, wherein particularly it is mentioned, That whosoever shall Hire an Indian to go a whaleing, shall not give him for his Hire, above one Trucking Cloath Coat for each whale hee and his Company shall Kill, on halfe the Blubber, without the Whale Bone, under a Penlty therein Exprest; upon Consideracon had thereupon, I have thought good Allow of the said order and do hereby Confirme the same, untill some inconvenience therein shall bee made appeare;
 And do also order that the like Rule bee followed at East Hampon, and other places, If they shall find it practicable amongst them.

APPENDIX "H."

Muster Rolls of a Century.

FROM 1664 TO 1760.

APPENDIX "H."

MUSTER ROLLS AND MILITARY COMMISSIONS ISSUED FOR THE COLONY OF NEW YORK BETWEEN THE YEARS 1664 AND 1760 — COVERING THE PERIOD OF THE CAPTURE OF NEW NETHERLANDS BY THE ENGLISH (SEPT. 1664), THE RECAPTURE OF NEW YORK BY THE DUTCH (AUG 1673), THE RESTORATION OF NEW YORK TO THE ENGLISH BY THE DUTCH (FEBRUARY AND MARCH 1674); THE ENGLISH REVOLUTION OF 1688; THE WAR BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FRANCE, 1689; THE UNSUCCESSFUL EXPEDITION AGAINST CANADA, 1689—1690; QUEEN ANNE'S WAR AND THE SECOND UNSUCCESSFUL EXPEDITION AGAINST CANADA 1709 — 1711; WAR OF THE "AUSTRIAN SUCCESSION" BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FRANCE 1744, CONCLUDED BY THE PEACE OF 1748; AND THE FRENCH AND INDIAN WAR FROM 1754 INCLUDING THE BATTLE OF LAKE GEORGE, SEPT. 8, 1755. THESE MUSTER ROLLS PRACTICALLY END WITH THE DEATH OF GEORGE II.

The subjoined military records taken from the Colonial Archives in the possession of our State Library represent military services of officers and men, covering a period of nearly one hundred years of the history of the province of New York.

In addition to the New York troops several rolls of militiamen who were stationed in New Jersey during the years 1673 and 1715 have been placed in the collection, for the reason that they form part of the Colonial Military Records of New York.

The records of the time of the Prince of Orange, Queen Anne, George I and George II, are particularly full and satisfactory.

Those rolls that cover the years from 1687 to 1690 would indicate that for the population of that time the standard of patriotism was commendably high.

War had been declared between France and England, and France had determined upon a policy of invasion of New York and New England, with the ultimate intention of acquiring territory that she might capture.

January, 1689, Chevalier de Callieres Bonnevue, Governor of Montreal, conceived a project for the invasion and conquest of New York. He intended to make Albany his objective point, and with a force of two thousand men, he proposed to take the route by the way of the Richelieu River to Lake Champlain, thence by the "Carrying Place" to the Hudson River, thence to Albany, which was called Orange in honor of the Prince of Orange who at that time was ruling England. Albany had a population as large as Montreal. The Chevalier was convinced that he would have but little difficulty in obtaining possession of Albany. This city once in his possession, he proposed to seize all the boats, barks and canoes available and embark down the Hudson River to attack the capital of the province "Manathe" (New York City). Success to him meant the governership of New York. Although his plan was approved by the French King and was put into execution, the expedition which Frontenac engineered, proceeded no further than Schenectady, which was burned and its inhabitants massacred in February 8-9, 1690.

Rolls will also be found covering the English expeditions to Canada in 1709-1710 and again in 1746.

Transcripts have also been made of the rolls of the troops raised during the French and Indian War, involving the Battle of Lake George which was fought September 8th, 1755. The descriptive rolls of the years 1758-59 will be particularly interesting to military students, showing but very slight variation from the descriptive military rolls of to-day.

Commission Peter Alrighs to be Schout and commandant
(Translated in N. Y. Col. Hist. Vol II page 614)

ANTHONY COLVE, GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK.

In the name of the Lord Amen! 19th September A'o 1673

Commission by the Honb'le Governor Anthony Colve to Peter Alrighs, to be Schout and Commandant of the South river in N. Netherland.

To all who will see these or hear them read greeting:

Whereas it is necessary to dispatch a fit and proper person as Commander and Schout on the South river in New Netherland lately called Delaware, beginning from Cape Heuloplen and so far more southerly as the same was heretofore possessed and settled at the time of the previous Dutch government; we therefore on the good report to us given of the person of Peter Alrighs, late Ensign and Commissary there in the time of the Dutch government aforesaid have Commissioned qualified and appointed and do hereby commission qualify and appoint him, Peter Alrighs Commander and Schout of said river in order as Commander and Schout, under the supreme command and authority as aforesaid, the said river and its inhabitants on both the East and West banks to govern, rule and against all hostile invasions to protect, as he shall find consistent with the best means in his power for the public service. Hereby ordering and commanding all officers Justices magistrates burgers and inhabitants there, the above named Peter Alrighs as their commander and Schout under the supreme authority as aforesaid, to respect honor and obey; for such we have judged necessary for the public service. All subject to the approval and veto of our Lords Principals. Thus done in Fort Willem Hendrick this 19th 7'ber, A'o 1673, in New Netherland. A. Colve

(This is reputed to have been the first official act of Governor Colve, who took office in September 19, 1673.)

PROCLAMATION OFFERING BOUNTIES TO VOLUNTEERS WHO ENLIST IN THE EXPEDITION AGAINST CROWN POINT. Page 95.

By his Excellency Sir Charles Hardy Knight Captain General and Governor in Chief in and over the province of New York and the Territories depending thereon in America and Vice Admiral of the same.

A Proclamation

Whereas this Government from a due sense of the importance of removing the French Encroachments at and near Crown Point and a just Resentment of the Barbarities Committed on the Inhabitants by the Savages infesting the western Frontiers of this and the neighbouring Colonies of New Jersey and Pensilvania have determined to make provision for raising paying and subsisting one thousand seven hundred and fifteen effective men, officers included; four hundred of which number to be employed in an offensive war against the indians now in hostility against his Majesty's subjects in the said provinces and the residue to be employed in the Expedition against Crown Point. And as an encouragement to persons to enlist voluntarily in the said services, have granted the following allowances.

To each able bodied Man who shall voluntarily enlist into the Service for the Expedition against Crown Point, the sum of five pounds, and the same Cloathing as was allowed to those employed in like service last year.

To every officer properly authorized to raise the said Forces for the service against Crown Point the sum of twenty shillings for each able bodied voluntier who shall engage therein.

To each able bodied Man who shall voluntarily enlist into the service against the Indians who infest the western Frontiers of this

Province, the sum of one pound ten Shillings, providing himself with proper Arms for the said Service.

And that the whole number of one thousand seven hundred and fifteen effective men both officers and Soldiers be put upon the same establishment with respect to pay and provisions as the Forces employed on the late Expedition against Crown Point were. I have therefore thought fit to notify the same by these presents, hereby Earnestly inviting his Majesty's good subjects Chearfully to inlist themselves in either of the said services, and promising all those who shall inlist, the Bounty and other encouragements before mentioned

Given under my hand and seal at Arms at Fort George in the City of New York the eighteenth day of March one thousand seven hundred and fifty six in the twenty ninth year of his Majesty's reign.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE STATE OF ULSTER AND ORANGE COUNTIES SENT TO THE GENERAL AS-SEMBLY IN MARCH 1756. WITH DEPOSITIONS AS TO SERVICE OF MILITIA ON THE FRONTIERS ETC.

102.

The Southern part of Ulster County and Northern part of orange County is in general a new settled Country and the Settlements & Improvements generally made by poor People; many of them from Long Island Westchester County & Connecticut Govern- ment: The settlements & Improvements in single and separate Farms except in the Town of Goshen, some of them at great distance from Neighbours: by which means they are much exposed to the surprizes of the Indian Enemy, and less capable of giving each other assistance

By the frequent and repeated incursions of the Indians on that part of Pensilvania adjoining to these Counties, and afterwards on some parts of these Counties, the people especially in the Northern parts of Orange and Southern parts of ulster have been kept in frequent and almost perpetual Alarm whereby the Inhabitants have been in Continued Military Duty so as to be rendered incapable of taking care of their private affairs for support of their families, and the hardships attending these Military Duties in watching, and ranging the woods has been so great that the People are distressed and almost worn out by the fatigue. An extent, of Country on the west side of the Wallkill, of 15 miles in length, and 70 r 8 in breadth, which was lately well and thick settled, is now abandoned by the Inhabitants, who for their safety have been obliged to remove their Families to the East side of the Wallkill, where many of them are indigent, and a heavy Burthen on their Neighbours in supporting them, and others are removed to distant parts, and some out of this Province. Besides the great Fatigues of Body, in Continual Guards and ranging the Woods, the anxiety of Mind, which the Inhabitants could not avoid by their being exposed to a cruel and savage Enemy, increased by the perpetual Lamentations and cries of the women and children, is not easy to be conceived by those who have not felt such uneasiness; all which tend greatly to discourage and dispirit the Inhabitants.

While this is the State of these two Counties and the other Counties are not subjected to the like calamities; it cannot be imagined but that the other parts of the Province would chearfully contribute, either in Money, or in personal Assistance, or in both, whatsoever shall be necessary for the future security and safety of these two Counties. Even common prudence, for our own future security, abstracted from all other considerations, requires that we defend those who stand in the Gap, between us and a cruel merciless Enemy.

This State of the Province, leads naturally to consider, what is done for relief of the People of Orange and Ulster Counties in the Bill Entitled [an act for raising paying and subsisting 1715 effective men, officers included, to be employed in conjunction with the neighbouring Colonies on an Expedition for reducing the French Fort at Crown Point, and carrying on an offensive war against the Indians who infest the western Frontiers of this Colony and other purposes therein mentioned]

By the Bill the men inlisted for the service against the western Indians, are to have 35/ to provide themselves with arms and a blanket; without any allowance for cloaths; an allowance far from being sufficient for these purposes, the People being Poor few of them have Arms fit for service; or are unable to purchase such. At the same time Men to be inlisted in the Northern Service have £5 reward, and are to be armd and cloath'd; and the officer inlisting is to have 20/ for every man he enlists.

The fatigue, danger and hardships in the Western Service; must be much greater than in the Northern; for in the western Service it is supposed the Men must travel through a desolate uncultivated Country, over Mountains, through Rivers and Swamps Continually exposed to the inclemencies of the Weather, without covering or Shelter by Night or by Day, and must for a great part of the Way Carry Their Provisions on their Backs, Continually exposed to be surprized by the Enemy: from most of Which Inconveniencies and Hardships the Northern Service is freed

By the Bill only such a Number of Men are to be employed on the Western Service as will be the Proportion of this Provirecc, agreeable to the Plan settled at Albany in 1754; New Jersey hath only provided for 200 men, which is less than their Proportion according to that Plan. And if the Captain General is tyed up to the Proportions settled in that Plan, it may defeat the proposed service.

If volunteers can not be procured the men are to be detached from Ulster and Orange Counties, and in Case of Refusal are to be punished as Deserters

It is not to be imagined that any person who has not very strong Attachments to that part of the Country, will remain in it, and be subjected to the Hazard of being detached in this manner; but will either enlist in the Northern Service, or remove into other Counties, and most probably go into New Jersey, which is in their Neighbourhood; Then, only masters or Heads of Families will remain to be detached—When the Country is Thus Deprived of day Labourers, and a great number of Heads of Families detached, and those remaining, still under the uncertainty of some surprize from the Indians, it will be impracticable for the greatest number of the Inhabitants to put any summer crops into the Ground or to prepare for winter Grain, or to reap what is on the Ground, or prepare Fodder for their Cattle. If this should be the Case their Families must be ruined, and from the very apprehensions of this becoming the case, should this Bill be enacted, it is to be feared these counties will be in a great measure depopulated, and the Design against the Indians become impracticable

The uneasiness which must arise on their being treated in so very different a manner, and subjected to Penalties from which all the Inhabitants of the other Counties are free, must alone excite them to desert the Country.

█ Detachments were made in their turn from every County in New Jersey to defend Their Frontiers; and Now the Frontiers are defended by men enlisted for that Service. They have built Forts all along their Frontiers, and garisoned them with these Detachments from the Distant Counties, for the Defence of the Inhabitants. In consequence whereof, not one Man in New Jersey, that we have heard of hath been killed by the Enemy, nor any Injury done to the Inhabitants of the Frontiers, but they are enabled to pursue their usual occupations for the support of their Families. Hence their numbers are daily increasing, by People going thither, as a Place of Safety, while the Counties of Orange and Ulster are daily deserted.

As the danger from the skulking enemy will be much greater as soon as the woods shall be covered with Leaves, it may be expected that unless the Inhabitants be soon relieved, that part of the Country will be deserted quite to the Hudsons River, and thereby give the Enemy an opportunity of infesting and interrupting the Navigation on that River

It is necessary to observe, there is no Provision made in the Bill for the Payment of the 35/, or for Provisions, or The Pay of the men for the western Service, as all the moneys to be paid by this Bill, are to be applied to the Service against Crown Point; which we are informed happened by an oversight

Since we have entered on the Consideration of the Bill, as a necessary Consequence of our observations on the present State of the Province, We Must observe that the Applications of money for the Service against Crown Point, are evidently short of what must be necessary for that service. If it should be said that the Assembly may meet in time to make up such Deficiency, it may on the other hand so happen, that the necessary defence of the Province may render it impracticable for the Governor to meet the Assembly, and we are fully persuaded, that no good Reason Can be given, why such a Sum as may be thought sufficient, should not be given at once, for if any part of it should become unnecessary, it will remain in the treasury.

It seems a great omission in the Bill, that the Commissaries are not more clearly put under the Direction of the Captain General or Commander in Chief. It is inconsistent with all Military Rules to have the Commissaries independent of the Commander in Chief; for thereby it may be in their Power to defeat any Enterprise that he may think proper and necessary.

In the last place we cannot omit a very material observation on the Bill, because it may, in the Eyes of our neighbouring colonies, affect the Reputation of the Province. We cannot Conceive any Reason why the number of Men to be raised by this Colony, should be determined to the precise number of 1715, if it be not the proportion of Men precisely to be furnished by this Colony, according to the agreement at Albany, when the Massachusetts Bay furnishes 3000 for the same service. But notwithstanding this Precision and apparent conformity to that agreement, take all the parts of the bill together and it will become evident, that only 1315 men, officers included can be employed in the same service with the New England Colonies.

To conclude, we are of opinion that all these inconveniences may be remedied by raising the whole 1715 men on the same footing. That in case the safety of any part of the province requires 100 of the 1715, to be sent on an offensive enterprise against the Indians, they be detached in the first place from the 1715; and that as soon as the service is done, that detachment join the other colonies in the service against Crown Point. By this means the bill may be much Shortned and the necessary preparation be more easily completed.

The season of the year is so far advanced that no time ought to be lost in leaving the whole number of men which are to be employed by this government and all the methods ought to be prescribed and powers given which may be necessary for a speedy completing of all the forces to be raised in this government.

Section A, Grave 490.
- William Davis, Private, Co. D, died October 8th, 1864,
Section A, Grave 533.

The above seems to be all from the 141st that are known to be buried in the National Cemetery at Marietta, Ga., although there must be quite a number sleeping in unknown graves, who fell at Peach Tree Creek, July 20th, 1864. They probably had nothing about themselves to identify them.

APPENDIX "J."

Crown Point.

MAP AND DESCRIPTION OF THE MOST EXPENSIVE FORTRESS EVER CONSTRUCTED ON THE CONTINENT OF NORTH AMERICA.

APPENDIX "J."

AN ACCOUNT OF FORT FREDERICK OR CROWN POINT WITH THE NORTH VIEW OF THAT CASTLE DRAWN ON THE SPOT. TAKEN FROM THE ROYAL MAGAZINE [LONDON] FOR JANUARY, 1760, THROUGH THE COURTESY OF THE HON. HENRY G. BURLEIGH OF WHITEHALL, NEW YORK.

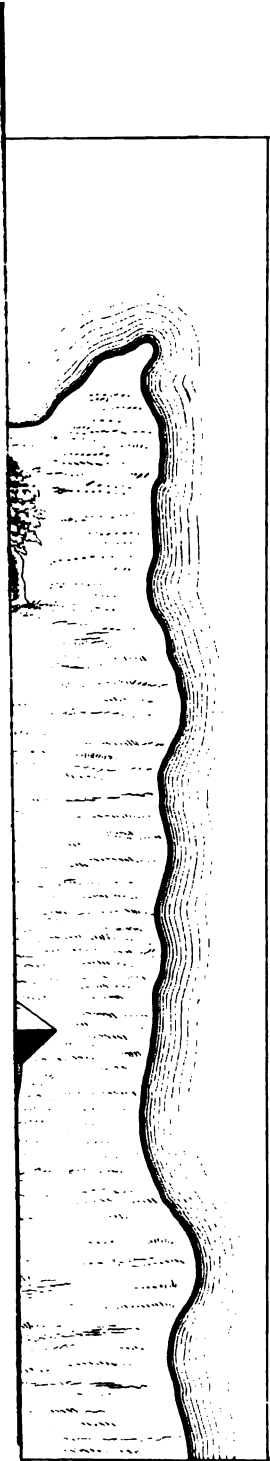

Fort Frederick or Crown Point, was erected about the year 1732 upon lands belonging to the colony of New York, and in a situation, the most proper for making incursions into the English settlements and annoying the Indians, of any, in this county. If it should be asked why they were suffered to erect this fortification, no satisfactory answer can be given. Intent upon improving their own estates and an advantageous commerce, the colony of New York suffered their enemy to build a fortification in their country, and which, during the last and the beginning of the present war, has been the source of misery to that flourishing colony.

Here the French collected their whole force, and from hence those shoals of scalping parties, those foes to humanity and scandal to the Christian name, issued to plunder and destroy the innocent inhabitants of the adjacent country.

It stands at the head of Champlain Lake, a large collection of waters, near four score miles in length and on which there is open navigation to Canada. It is about midway between Albany and Montreal and effectually covers all Canada by blocking up the passage to that country. So that it is no wonder that, during the last and present war, so many attempts were made to reduce it, all which proved abortive till that undertaken in 1759, under the command of the brave General Amherst, when it became subject to the English Crown and in all probability will long continue so. For whatever part of our conquests it may be thought proper to resign in order to establish a general peace, this will certainly remain in our possession, as it stands in a country usurped by the enemy and erected in defiance of former treaties.

The country in which this fortification is erected is one of the most fruitful in all North America as appears from its being covered with sugar trees and ginseng, so that double advantage will result from the possession thereof, as it will prove a security against the incursion of our enemies if they should ever be put in possession of Canada and the nursery of a brave and useful people. From a view of the plate annexed it may perhaps appear strange that a fortification of that size should be able so long to defy the whole power of the British Colonies. But it must be remembered that forts built in the inland parts of America depend more upon their situation than strength. They are generally erected on some advantageous spot of land and surrounded with woods of many miles in extent, so that before an army can reach the place they are exposed to ambuscades of the enemy and the artful attacks of a savage race of mortals. Besides, the greatest difficulty attends the transportation of artillery necessary to make the attack; it being often necessary to cut a passage through thick woods for many miles together, and when the ground is cleared from the trees and other obstacles it is very improper for wheel carriages. Add to this the steep mountains so common in this country, and the large and rapid rivers with which it abounds, and the reader will cease to wonder that this fortification has not been before reduced and a final period put to the scalping parties that, so often assemble there.

Proud Sc.

Perhaps General Amherst himself would have found it a difficult task to have reduced Fort Frederick if the army before Quebec had not intimidated the French and their Indian allies and induced them to abandon both this and the strong post at Ticonderago in order to prevent their retreat being cut off and themselves put between two fires.

The expedition therefore against Quebec was of a double advantage, as it not only put us in possession of the capital of Canada but also effectually assisted General Amherst in taking Ticonderago and Crown Point, and by that means terminated the cruel irruptions of the savages headed by Frenchmen, if possible greater savages than themselves.
